

Snoopy Going for a Walk

All Set for Moon Close-Up

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan started their final preparations today for the most dangerous space operation ever tried—diving to within 10 miles of the moon.

From mission control came the piped-in strains of "The Best Is Yet to Come."

Ground controllers sent the song up at its 9:45 a.m. EDT "wake-up call." But Stafford, Cernan and John W. Young were already up and getting ready for the 3:10 p.m.

maneuver in which Stafford and Cernan will cut loose in their "Snoopy" lunar lander to skim low over the lunar surface twice while Young orbits 69 miles above in the "Charlie Brown" mother ship.

Stafford and Cernan crawled through a three-foot tunnel into the spidery lunar module, or LEM, in mid-morning and began checking the craft's complex systems.

On the grueling and perilous 16-hour day hang U.S. plans to land two Apollo 11 astronauts on the moon July 20.

The astronauts put on another of their spectacular live television shows today before Stafford fires the landing craft's engines to initiate the first of two passes within 10 miles of the lunar crust.

The first of their live color telecasts from the moon came Wednesday night a few hours after they dropped into lunar orbit with pinpoint precision. The astronauts found the moon grey-brown in color and "fantastic" in appearance.

Today was the fifth day of their eight-day mission to check the four-legged lunar landing craft and scout landing sites.

Cernan and Stafford planned to look closely at the planned landing area for Apollo 11—a flat space on the northwestern edge of the Moon's Sea of Tranquility.

They said Wednesday night it looked "a little bit rugged." But scientist-astronaut Jack Schmitt said at mission control the sun was at a low angle on the lunar terrain at the time and had probably exaggerated the peaks.

The astronauts' dazzling scenes of the moon in full color kept the worldwide television ratings up for one of the video events of the century. Hundreds of millions of persons watched their transmissions of the earth from space, the interior of the spacecraft, and the grey and brown surface of the moon.

The Russians called Apollo 10 entertainment for the decadent ruling classes.

"The end of the 60's of this century prepared a new kind of entertainment for the American high society—the launching of rockets to the moon and subsequent pleasures," the Soviet news agency Novosti said. But Novosti also said Russians shared "the pride which the Americans feel for their astronauts."

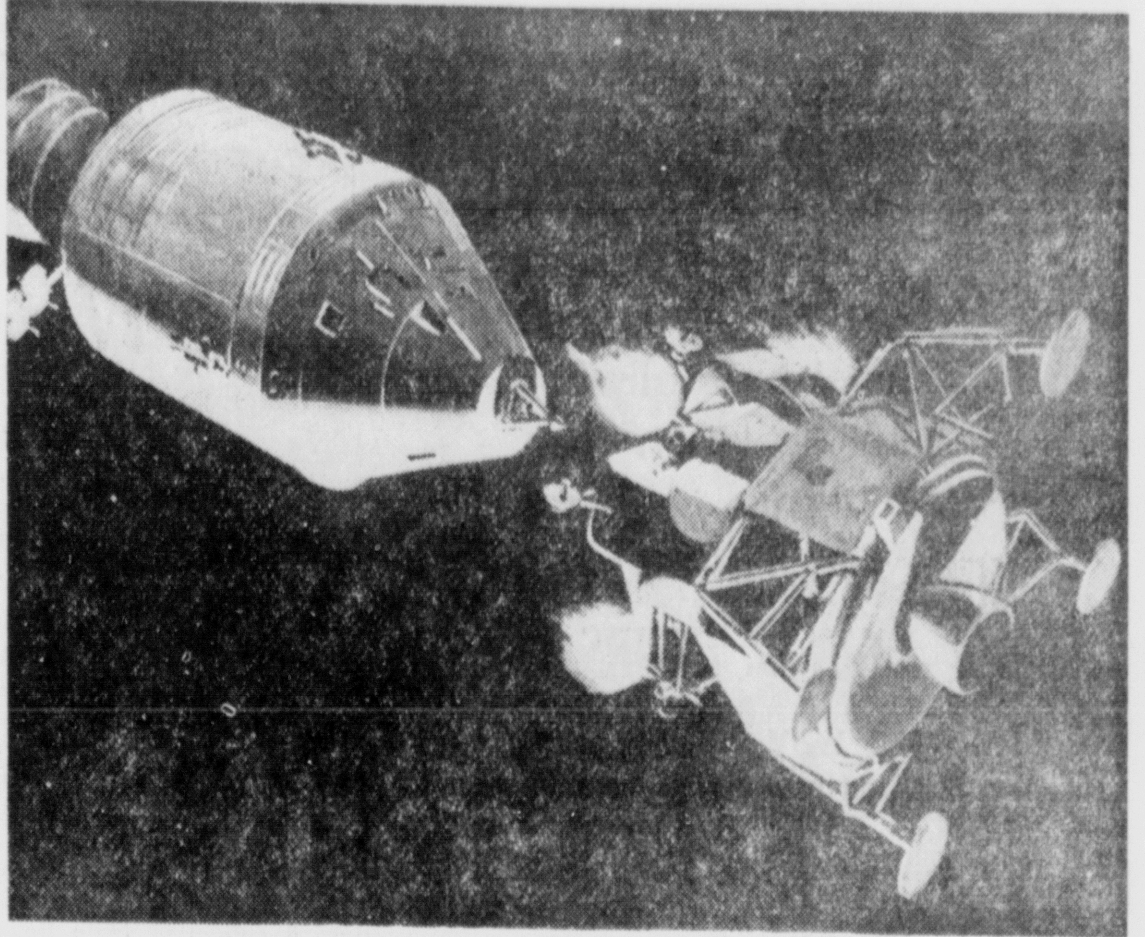

In Earth, Tex.—population 1,104—there was not much interest in the moon. Alvin Pittman summed it up for earthmen: "Danged if I think there's anything up there."

But in Moon, Va., which has 198 people and is approximately even smaller than Earth, folks were pretty proud. Apollo 10 might mean two sisters who run the post office and also Moon's only industry—making pictures out of flower petals—might be in for some work. However, during previous space shots, the Moon post office got mail from all over to be postmarked.

In the South Pacific, the prime recovery ship USS Princeton polished its procedures to pick up the astronauts when they splash down 339 miles east of Pago Pago, American Samoa, at 12:53 a.m. EDT Monday.

The National Geographic Society said the spacecraft may be dimly visible as it heads home from lunar orbit, between the moon and the constellation Leo after 8:30 p.m. EDT Saturday, 9 p.m. EDT Sunday and 2:30 a.m. Monday.

The four-legged lunar spacecraft has been tested in earth orbit, but never around the moon and at the maximum distance of 350 miles from the main ship it must fly today. It must perform precisely to boost Stafford and Cernan back to Young's altitude for a rendezvous just before 11 p.m. That will end the busy day.

The Moon Checkout Also Offers Bonus

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 10 was sent to the moon to prove out the steps necessary for an actual lunar landing this summer.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young got their chance to do that today.

But as a bonus, the astronauts are gathering valuable scientific information on the nature of the celestial sphere that circles earth 250,000 miles away.

The pilots are highly trained in geology and they carry enough film to take 600 still pictures and 840 feet of movie film of the craggy surface from 50,000 feet in the lunar lander today.

The two close swings today were primarily to simulate the actual path taken during the landing mission. But the data the men bring back adds to the growing body of knowledge about earth's closest celestial neighbor and Stafford's and Cernan's comments mean more than just random statements by gawking tourists.

"Boy, I never saw anything like that," Young said. "It seems the colors are different on the backside; they seem lighter, primarily because of the shades of black and white and brown. Near as I can tell there's some brown in there."

Stafford, Cernan and Young rattled off graphic and almost textbook descriptions about features that have intrigued earthbound scientists for years. Stafford left no doubt that he was certain some of the moon's features were created by volcanism similar to that which has shaped much of the earth.

All three described long, canyon-like rilles which some scientists think might be caused by erosion by water or some other fluid.

Swift Confirmation Expected Of Burger as New Chief Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has selected his kind of "law and order" judge, Warren E. Burger, to succeed Earl Warren and serve as the 15th chief justice of the United States.

The gray-haired, 61-year-old westerner, a veteran of 13 years on the U.S. Circuit Court here, is known as a strict constructionist who has criticized "appellate nit-picking."

Senators, particularly conservatives, hailed Burger's selection. If confirmation is as swift and easy as appears likely, Burger will step in next term for Warren, who is retiring at 78 after piloting the Supreme Court through its most active and liberal period.

The choice was a relatively obscure one, though Burger has a solid reputation in legal circles. His immediate predecessors, Warren, Fred M. Vinson, Harlan F. Stone and Charles Evans Hughes, all had national reputations when they were picked to be chief justice.

Nixon announced the nomination to the country from the White House Wednesday night.

He said it was the most important one a President can make.

While campaigning for the presidency, Nixon said court decisions were "seriously hamstringing the peace forces in our society and strengthening the criminal forces."

The White House, in a statement, said Burger's philosophy was reflected in a commencement speech he made two years ago at Ripon College. It began:

"Governments exist chiefly to foster the rights and interests of its citizens—to protect their homes and property, their persons and their lives."

Burger called his selection "a tribute to all the federal and state judges of the nation who day in and day out perform the difficult task of the administration of justice."

His wife, Evera, kissed him on the cheek, and together they went to the Yellow Oval Room with the President, Mrs. Nixon and some guests for a brief celebration.

Warren, meanwhile, issued a statement congratulating Burger, wishing him success and happiness and declaring: "I will be glad to do anything I can to facilitate his taking over the duties of the office at the end of our term."

That will be sometime next month.

Burger, whose distinguished good looks fit anyone's idea of a judge, is a native of St. Paul, Minn., a graduate of the University of Minnesota and the St. Paul College of Law. He worked his way through school and practiced law for 21 years before going on the bench.

Burger served in the Eisenhower administration from 1953 to 1956 as head of the Justice Department's civil division. To him fell the task of pressing for court approval of the dismissal of John Peters, a part-time medical consultant, as a security risk.

In an unusual step, Simon E. Sobeloff, the Solicitor General, had declined. Burger stepped in for him, and earned the gratitude of high Eisenhower officials for arguing the controversial cause.

Burger's background suggests, but by no means assures, that the Court's broad expansion of the rights of criminal suspects and defendants could be slowed down.

Though the Warren Court has been predominantly liberal, the balance in criminal law cases has sometimes been delicate. For instance, it was a 5-4 decision in the 1966 Miranda case that assured people accused of crime the right to remain silent under police questioning and to have a lawyer's help.

This delicate balance could be tipped the other way if Burger takes an opposite position from Warren. At the same time Burger is considered a liberal on civil rights and an advocate of speedy trials, a long-time goal of most liberal jurists.

William T. Gossett, president of the American Bar Association, told a reporter: "I don't think he is going to disagree with the protection given the accused by most of the court's decisions."

A Warm Senate Response To the Choice for Bench

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nomination of Warren E. Burger to be chief justice has drawn a warm response in the Senate, particularly from conservatives, indicating the veteran federal judge will have little trouble winning confirmation.

Within an hour after President Nixon's Wednesday night disclosure of his choice, Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., announced his Senate Judiciary Committee will hold hearings on Burger's nomination the first week in June.

"He is an outstanding jurist and a very fine man," declared Eastland, a persistent critic of what he terms liberal Supreme Court decisions under retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Although the conservatives were the most enthusiastic, many liberals also said they approved of Burger, who is considered a generally tougher advocate of law and order measures than the majority of the current Supreme Court.

Burger has served 13 years as a judge of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., and Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va.—all Judiciary Committee members who opposed Abe Fortas for chief justice last year—joined Eastland in hailing the appointment.

"I am sure," said Hruska, "the Senate will give quick and enthusiastic confirmation."

He has demonstrated many fine attainments, one of which will have an especially wide appeal, and that is his consistent support of law and order."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said the 61-year-old Burger would "make a good chief justice," adding he thinks the judge "will cut the Supreme Court's annual three-month holiday down to one month."

Outside the halls of Congress, the nomination won support from some of Burger's fellow judges, as well as former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and William T. Gossett, president of the American Bar Association.

Gossett, who described the nominee as "a strong man of great intellectual capacity and broad experience, said Nixon did not consult the ABA before making the selection—the usual practice in judicial nominations."

But he said the bar passed on Burger in 1956 and found him well qualified when he was seated on the court of appeals.

"I think," added Gossett, "he is a worthy successor to Chief Justice Warren."

Dewey predicted in a statement that Burger "will be a distinguished chief justice."

Chief Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York declared that Burger "is very highly regarded by judges for his integrity, his ability and the soundness of his views."

Napanoch GI Killed On Patrol in Viet

NAPANOCH Ulster County suffered its 28th Vietnam fatality with the death of Marine Pfc. Raymond Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wood of Irish Cape Road in this community on May 17.

Private Wood, 20, was killed while on patrol in Quan Tri Province. He attended Ellenville High School and graduated from 37 Trenton Street Kingston, who died on April 2; Army Pfc. John Fallsburg High School in the summer of 1967. He enlisted for two years in the Marine Corps on May 23, 1968. Private Wood had been in Vietnam for about five months at the time of his death.

The young Marine had been a self-employed carpenter before enlisting in the Marine Corps. In addition to his parents, he is survived by five sisters.

Private Wood was the sixth Ulster County serviceman to be killed in Vietnam this year.

Army Private Michael Winters of Saugerties was wounded on April 19 and died on April 22.

The four others included Army Pfc. Stephen Sherlock of 37 Trenton Street Kingston, who died on April 2; Army Pfc. John Fallsburg High School in the summer of 1967. He enlisted for two years in the Marine Corps on May 23, 1968. Private Wood had been in Vietnam for about five months at the time of his death.

The Vietnam fatality rate for Ulster County servicemen appears to be running well ahead of the record 1968 total when nine men lost their lives.

There were eight deaths reported in 1967 with one man listed as missing and five deaths in 1966.

Dutchess County lists a total of 32 war dead for the past 3½ years, beginning with three in 1966. There were nine deaths reported in 1967 and 17 last year. So far this year there have been three Dutchess County servicemen reported killed in Vietnam.

The body of Private Wood is expected home in about a week. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the Loucks Funeral Home in Ellenville.

Ulster GOP Dinner

More than 200 persons attended the Town of Ulster Republican Club dinner recently at the Flamingo Restaurant. Left are Ulster Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz; County Clerk Albert Spada, who served as master of ceremonies; guest speakers, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Sen. Jay P. Rolison and John Barry, representing Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. Campus problems, the Westchester dump proposal and new trends in state government were among topics explored by the legislators. Rolison told the audience, "the Legislature is not going to stand still for the radical left wing, SDS or what you call them. They do not have the right to trample on someone who does not agree with them. They have the right to express their view but they do not have the right to suppress our views." Sen. Rolison said he thought this was the big, the critical issue and "it may determine whether this country is going to survive as a free country." The Poughkeepsie lawyer asked everyone to write the governor asking him to sign the Flynn Bill which would deny funds to radical students. Assemblyman Bell, whom Rolison praised for "making his mark" as a freshman legislator with the passage of a number of bills, turned the tables and complimented the state senator for his work in getting Senate approval for limiting the powers of the Pure Water Authority.

For Lloyd's City Fathers: A Dilemma on Traffic

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

HIGHLAND
The "power of the state," often possesses quite a dilemma to the practitioners of local government in the State of New York.

The Lloyd Town Board attempted to come to grips with such a dilemma at its regular meeting last night.

The issue came up during a discussion regarding a parking congestion problem in the Village of Highland.

In the course of the discussion, it was pointed out that a portion of State Route 44-55 which cuts through the center of the village was the focal point of the congestion.

However, it was also disclosed that because the state has domain over the road, the town could not regulate parking at this juncture.

It was also noted that the town could not regulate the flow of traffic through Highland either. This fact was realized by members of the board after the State Highway Department removed some stop signs along 44-55.

Supervisor Thomas J. Shay also read a letter to the members of the board which further amplified the dilemma.

The letter, from the State Transportation Department, acknowledged receipt of a request from the town for a traffic light at a dangerous intersection on Route 9W, indicating that they would give the matter consideration.

However, the letter was also careful to point out that even if the town desired to install a traffic light at its own request, it would be a violation of state regulations.

The Town Board's political problems were not only coming from Albany.

During the parking congestion discussion, Supervisor Shay and other Board members told Chief Constable Fred Bragg that he should more aggressively enforce the towns parking regulations.

However, as the discussion progressed it became apparent that a solution to the problem was not so easily forthcoming, because many of the alleged violators were delivery men and shoppers.

As one board member put it, "if you issue too many tickets, it hurts business."

In other business, at the Wednesday night meeting, the board announced the summer hours for public use of the town dump.

From June 4 to September 3 the dump will open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday; from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday; and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday.

Supervisor Shay also read a letter announcing that the town would receive a 5 per cent reduction in state aid due to the cuts in the budget.

Shay said that because of this the town will lose $2400 in state assistance over the coming fiscal year.

Town of Rosendale-- Zoning Ideas Sought

By SHANE CROSBY

MAPLE HILL
Another step was taken by the Town of Rosendale here Wednesday night to bring a zoning ordinance subdivision regulation to the township, as the first of two public hearings by the Zoning Commission was held under the chairmanship of Howard Mansfield.

Mansfield told a sparse audience in the old Maple Hill School that "anybody that has a good idea, we want to hear it." The chairman invited questions into the proposed ordinance drawn up by the town's Planning Board with the assistance of the Brown and Anthony City Planners, Inc., a group that has also consulted with the Village of Rosendale.

Before hearing arguments against the proposed plan, he read a decision of the commission that he said is a proposed change. Mansfield said the commission was considering changing the requirement for one-family dwellings in the R-2 residential zone that will, if approved, require a special permit for construction of residences on land that had been zoned for at least 12,500 square foot plots.

Under the planning board's proposal, persons could build one-family houses on 12,500 sq. ft. in the R-2 Zone, larger homes would have to go into the R-1 Zone of 1/2-acre or the A Zone of 1 1/2-acres.

The yet to be created Zoning Board of Appeals for Rosendale would have charge of the special permits, he said, and each case would have to be dealt with on an individual basis or its own merits, due to the varied ground problem within the R-2 Zone.

Mansfield said the commission was not attempting to "prohibit, but protect" homeowners, and told those present that "it is not the purpose of this commission to ram an ordinance down the throats of the people."

A second hearing by the commission is scheduled for June 12 at 8 p.m. in the Maple Hill building, but he said the date was "tentative."

Items brought up Wednesday included the section dealing with the flood control areas of the township and designations of properties and possible appeals by landowners. A section of the proposed law says that if owners can prove their properties are not in danger of flooding as defined in the section, they could be rezoned after a hearing by the board of appeals.

Former Village Mayor Joseph Reid and Village Zoning Commission Chairman Michael Antonelli asked the commission to consider the rezoning of a tract of village owned property in Tillson from residential to industrial to conform with a former use of the land when owned by A. J. Snyder of Rosendale.

Counsel for the commission, William P. Curran, told the body that as a resident of the town, he would prefer to have sections of the "white" A Zone changed from residential to light industrial to help bring companies to the township without fears of subdivisions. Curran suggested that sections of the A Zone that border the Wallkill Valley Railroad tracks and other railways in the town be set aside for industry.

A Mother Pleads, a Gas Chamber Waits

While a near-tearful Mrs. Mary Sirhan, mother of Sirhan B. Sirhan, pleads with newsmen to please understand "how sorry we feel about Senator Robert Kennedy," the gas chamber at San Quentin prison in California is scheduled to be the place where Sirhan dies for murdering Kennedy. Sirhan was sentenced to death despite a plea for clemency from the family of the slain senator. (UPI TELEPHOTOS).

Sentence of Death Fails To Move Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan just sat there, chewing on a cellophane wrapped cigar, as the judge sentenced him to death for the murder of Robert F. Kennedy. The melodramatic reading by his defense attorney of a letter from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy asking that Sirhan's life be spared did not move him at all. He said nothing and he showed nothing. Within a few days he will be taken to Death Row in San Quentin Prison. There, he will wait while appeals go up to the United States Supreme Court over a period of more than a year. In a handwritten note, Ted Kennedy recommended clemency. "My brother was a man of love and sentiment and compassion," Kennedy wrote. "He would not have wanted his death to be cause for the taking of another life." Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker made no mention of the letter in passing sentence. "It is the feeling of this court that the jury was right and I have no reason to change my opinion now," Walker said. Then he turned to Sirhan and said, "Stand up." "It is the judgment and sentence of this court that for the crime in the first degree you are to die in the manner prescribed by law." Walker ordered that Sirhan be transported to San Quentin within 10 days. It is expected that the tiny former racehorse exercise boy be moved there secretly within the next few days and isolated from prisoners who might try to attack him. The sentence came little less than a year after Sirhan shot Kennedy down in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel after a victory party celebrating his win in the California presidential primary.

City Woman's Complaint Ends Vacation Fraud

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON A speedy investigation that originated with a complaint from Mrs. Bernard Carle, of 139 Third Avenue, this city, to the office of the Ulster County district attorney and subsequently extended to the Pacific Coast involving the FBI, post office inspectors and California authorities reportedly has smashed an alleged Hawaiian "fully paid vacation for two" scheme.

Two men described as German nationalists, who have been operating in Hollywood, Calif., under the name of Deluxe Vacationer, have been taken into custody and charged with mail fraud as the result of the inquiry that stemmed from a complaint made to County Investigator Thomas Mayone by a Kingston woman.

The accused pair, George Aust and Roland Graber, last week began sending out certificates across the country asking the "lucky recipients" to send a $25 "registration deposit" to secure their prize.

The Better Business Bureau identified Aust as an individual who had been suspected in questionable promotions.

Atty. Gen. Louis K. Lefkowitz and the BBB of New York issued a statement Wednesday telling the public that hundreds of such certificates are flooding the mails. The only winners, and subsequently the report they advise, are the two promoters of the fraudulent scheme—who ask $25 from each "winner," namely Aust and Graber.

If the "winner's certificate" says you have just won a fully paid round trip vacation for two in Hawaii—or Mexico, said Lefkowitz, "don't believe it."

On Tuesday, Investigator Mayone received a complaint from Mrs. Carle, who produced a certificate and literature informing her she was a "winner."

Mayone lost no time in starting an investigation of the fraud. He contacted the Dutchess County district attorney's office and was informed no complaints of the phantom Hawaiian vacation had been received there.

The county investigator called the Post Office inspector in Poughkeepsie about the announcement of the winners. The FBI in Kingston was notified. Those departments in turn contacted their main offices, who relayed the information to their respective departments in California.

Mayone noted that Greenwald's Travel Service, Inc., on John Street, also was notified of the receipt of the literature and certificates by local residents, and a representative contacted the New York office, and subsequently the report went to the agency in Hollywood. The efforts of all participating units brought results Tuesday night when Post Office inspectors took part in the arrests of the two suspects.

Mayone, who said numerous area residents had been intended victims of the "winner's certificate" fraud, complimented the Kingston woman who made the original complaint, and the FBI, post office inspectors and Greenwald's Travel Agency, for their timely cooperation that led to the arrests.

Several local residents had returned the certificate—and the $25 requested as a "registration deposit" to secure the prizes.

GUARDSMAN PINNED — A young girl pins flowers on a National Guardsman, on perimeter of the University of California campus. Scores of U. ## 'Heavy' Gunfire on Dixie Campus; No Failures for Semester at CCNY

By United Press International
"Heavy" gunfire was exchanged early today between police and snipers on three buildings on the campus of North Carolina A&T University in Greensboro. No injuries were reported.

The sniper fire from two dormitories and a classroom building of the mostly Negro school ended shortly after 4 a. m. and police withdrew all but a few patrols around the campus. National Guardsmen returned to the armory.

Gov. Robert Scott ordered 150 National Guardsmen to duty Wednesday night after Greensboro police used tear gas to break up rock and bottle-throwing rampages by Negro youths after a disorder during a demonstration at all Negro Dudley High School.

Disorder Spreads

The disorder spread to the campus of the 4,000-student college when 100 persons stoned automobiles and police. Tear gas was used again, youths apparently fled into dormitories and sniper fire later occurred.

In New York, a committee of students, administration and faculty members said Wednesday night there will be no failures at City College of New York this semester. Other demands by black and Puerto Rican students were being worked out and militant students set midnight tonight as a deadline for the school to answer them.

In California, the tear gas spraying of the University of California's Berkeley campus from a National Guard helicopter and the death of a student who died of a gunshot wound allegedly inflicted by a policeman touched off demonstrations at several universities and a public debate between Gov. Ronald Reagan and a group of UC professors.

99 Guerrillas Killed Near Saigon

By GIs and S. Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. and South Vietnamese infantrymen fought guerrilla soldiers on four fronts leading to Saigon and reported today having killed 99 while suffering light losses. Three flights of B52 bombers followed up the Wednesday battles with raids that dropped half a million pounds of and explosives on Viet Cong corridors from Cambodia to Saigon. Preliminary reports from the field said the Communists shelled three Allied bases overnight—fewest rocket and mortar salvos since their latest surge began May 11.

The fighting outside Saigon raged northwest, southwest and northeast of the city, from 20 to 60 miles from downtown, according to the U.S. Command. Four American GIs were wounded.

It demonstrated the continued presence of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops in bivouacs within striking distance of the capital, waiting perhaps for orders to launch another strike, spokesmen said.

Turn Back Red Attack

In a delayed report, South Vietnamese spokesmen said government paratroopers Tuesday turned back an afternoon Communist attack in the Central Highlands, killing 61 North Vietnamese while suffering "light" casualties of their own.

The U.S. Command Wednesday sent three B52 strikes against a guerrilla buildup, including bunker complexes, in the same area near Dak To, about 300 miles north of Saigon near the border with Cambodia and Laos.

Heaviest of the four fights Wednesday around Saigon involved South Vietnamese paratroopers 48 miles northeast of the city who reported killing 4 Communists with support from dive bombers and artillery. Government losses were described only as light.

Calvarymen Open Fire

U.S. air cavalrymen camped 60 miles northwest of Saigon caught a band of guerrillas trying to sneak into their outpost, opened fire and killed 12 while capturing one, military spokesmen said. Two GIs were wounded.

Southwest of the capital, troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division backed by helicopter gunships reported killing 21 Viet Cong and triggering 12 secondary explosions with their artillery.

Optimism Over Nixon Proposals As Peace Talks Resume Again

PARIS (UPI)—Allied negotiators headed into the Vietnam talks today with what sources close to the meeting said was optimism that discussions of proposals by President Nixon and the Viet Cong could bring progress.

U.S. delegation sources said Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator, would comment on the Viet Cong's 10-point peace plan Washington said included some points meriting further study.

Xuan Thuy, chief North Vietnamese negotiator, had indicated he and Tran Bui Kiem of the Viet Cong were still studying the Nixon eight-point proposal.

Could Be Interesting

One U.S. official said the session, the 18th since the talks began Feb. 5, "could be an interesting one."

HRVC OKs Trailers

SAUGERTIES—The 25-unit trailer court of Bernard and Rita F. Sachs proposed for Route 9W Barclay Heights was approved this week by the Hudson River Valley Commission.

The HRVC reviewed the application at its recent meeting. Installation of the trailer court on an eight-acre site has been opposed by several petitions of adjacent property owners filed with Saugerties Town Board.

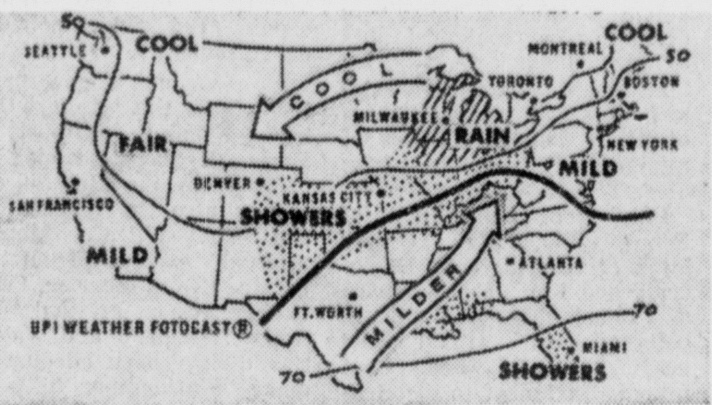

A permit application for installation at the site is currently under consideration by the Town Board.

Earlier this week petitioners of the Barclay Heights area filed a petition with 135 signatures asking the Town Board to hold a public hearing on approval of the application to determine public opinion on the matter.

Other petitions covering the names of hundreds of property owners in the area opposing establishment of the trailer court have been previously filed with the Town Board.

The plans filed with the application indicated that the applicants wish to install 25 trailer sites on about eight acres of land and will include 13,000-gallon septic tanks and the same number of distribution boxes to handle the effluent or run off.

The property covers 482.52 feet on Route 9W and runs easterly toward the boundaries of residents in an adjacent housing development.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Friday

Tonight, scattered showers and thundershowers are anticipated over the lower mid west to the southern Plains, the mid Gulf and also in the southern portions of Florida, while some rain and showers will be noted in the Lakes area. Clear to partly cloudy skies elsewhere. Except for somewhat warmer readings in the eastern third of the nation, little change in temperatures will be expected throughout the rest of the country. Worth 67, Jacksonville 66, Little Rock 66, Los Angeles 60, Miami 72, New York 55, Phoenix 66, San Francisco 54, Seattle 52, St. Louis 54 and Washington 59 degrees.

BARRYTOWN

Brother James D. Cronin, director general of St. Joseph's Normal Institute in Barrytown, announced today the closing of the famed training school for the Christian Brothers for the past 40 years, as of Sept. 1.

The Novices now in training will leave St. Joseph's June 9 to complete their year of study and formation at Christian Brothers Novitiate located at Narragansett, R. I. The Brothers of the Holy Family Community will remain in Barrytown for the present and be re-assigned to various communities of the Brothers as of Sept. 1.

The novitiate department at St. Joseph's is closing because of developments resulting, in large measure, from the Second Vatican Council, 1962-65. In their desire to update the church, the bishops at the Council spoke of the issue of the religious and professional formation of candidates to the priesthood and religious life.

Although the Council itself gave only general guidelines regarding the direction this formation should take, it set up standing committees to study in depth the issues involved in such formation and to make specific proposals regarding changes that would be necessary or desirable.

Findings Published

This January, the findings of one such committee were published by the Congregation for Religious, the department of the Catholic Church's central administration in Rome directly concerned with the structure and function of religious orders and institutes. In the light of these findings the Congregation issued its findings.

Foremost among the points stressed in the document published by the Congregation is the realization that in world becoming increasingly more complex and technological, young men and women are not able to make vocational decisions at the same early age as was once the custom.

It was thought that this realization would necessitate a program for candidates to religious orders.

Since its construction in 1930, most young men have come to St. Joseph's novitiate immediately upon graduation from high school. After fourteen months of religious studies here they would proceed to the Catholic University of America at Washington, D.C. for undergraduate studies.

The newly developed program will place the novitiate after, rather than before, the completion of college. This will allow the candidate for the Brothers to bring with him to the novitiate additional maturity, experience, and intellectual discipline.

Additional Four Years

It will also allow him an additional four years to evaluate both his desire to become a Brother and his fitness for the Brother's life style. The novitiate would follow either directly upon completion of college or upon the completion of two or three years of post-graduate teaching experience.

The transference of the Brothers' novitiate from Barrytown reflects the growing tendency to locate seminaries and novitiates nearer to urban centers or college campuses. This affords the young person in training exposure to the cultural opportunities represented by large cities, or access to a large number of professional scholars to challenge and inspire. Proximity to urban areas affords the student first hand experience of the problems, such as poverty, race, and congested housing with which he will have to deal when he begins his ministry.

Brother Cronin said that the Board of Directors has not "as yet announced plans for the future use of buildings and grounds."

A committee of Brothers has been appointed by Brother Augustus Loes, Provincial of the Brothers in the New York Province, to make a study and to report on the possibilities for the use of the plant. Brother Provincial said that "three or four Brothers would be assigned to St. Joseph's to remain indefinitely until a final report is presented by the committee to the Board," before final action would be taken.

To Appellate Lefkowitz Takes The Milk Case

NEW YORK (AP) — State Court to set aside the PSC ruling.

Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz says he has carried to the State Supreme Court's Appellate Division his fight to overturn a state Public Service Commission ruling that he contends could result in a milk price increase.

He said the Tank Carriers Conference, an association of over-the-road bulk carriers of milk and dairy products, sought and received PSC approval last year for procedures to eliminate price competition.

Lefkowitz said he opposed approval during the PSC hearing. When it was granted, the Anti-Monopolies Bureau of his office filed in Albany County Supreme er's brief states.

The motion was denied and now the question has been taken to the Appellate Division, Third Department, in Albany.

Lefkowitz contends the PSC decision was "arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion and contrary to law," and is seeking a judicial determination of the validity of its ruling.

"We are sure that it is unnecessary to emphasize the public importance of the need of protection against increases in the price of an essential product such as milk," the attorney general's brief states.

"The increases could result from the transportation monopoly authorized by the Public Service Commission decision," it states.

Lefkowitz contends that the trucking group and the PSC failed to show any overriding justification in the public interest or benefit to the consumer that would result from the elimination of price competition.

Judges of the U.S. courts are appointed by the president, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The Other 2470 Campuses

There are 2500 colleges, universities and junior colleges in the United States. Their population is about 6.7 million students. Most of them are untouched by the demonstrations and sit-ins and all the other disturbances at the 30 colleges and universities where major unrest has occurred this year.

As spring brings the blooms and gentle breezes and campus and social events herald the coming of commencement, the more than six million students unaffected by the turmoil are looking ahead to the fulfillment for them of the American dream—a degree, a profession, a place in the world, a first rung on the way to a full and meaningful and happy life.

Most of them are not at college to change the world. That will wait until they are part of the larger world. For the four years they are at college, they stick to the idea that brought them there—to better themselves, to learn to be someone in the world, above all to get a diploma.

So many of the college population are from small towns. They're kind of conservative. They don't understand what all the unrest in the big name colleges and universities is about. On many campuses, they never seen a black student. Where they have, they accept them as fellow students. Only when an occasional radical comes for the particular purpose of arousing them do they give thought to race.

The turmoil on campus is largely manufactured. The participants are primarily cadres of radicals bent on creating havoc, and secondarily the few they enlist whether they be black or white. They make all the noise and raise all the hell, but they do not represent even the majority on the campuses where they appear.

Americans must not believe their colleges and universities are crumbling. They are not. A few of them are going through a shameful phase because radicals have gotten a jump on some administrators and have taken command. They must and will be driven off. Their legal demands will be adjusted in time. But there is no place for them on campus and there won't be when all is clear.

Terrorism Perils Peace

As Secretary of State William P. Rogers started out on an 18-day trip around the world, including his first visit to Vietnam, he warned Communist leaders there that their campaign of terrorism against Saigon and other South Vietnamese centers threatens peace hopes.

Rogers' departure on the eve of President Nixon's report to the nation on the prospects of peace in Vietnam was indicative. It showed that the President did not have any breakthrough to announce, but rather the road blocks in the way of peace at this time. His long conference with Gen. Creighton Abrams, the U. S. commander, confirmed this.

"The indiscriminate and senseless killing and wounding of civilians in their homes and in the streets can only raise questions about the intentions of the other side with respect to peace," Rogers said. "The United States' purpose in Vietnam is to negotiate peace. That purpose is not served by new terrorism attacks against civilians in Saigon. For our part, we are engaged in a serious effort to halt the violence in Vietnam—to put an end to the war. We must continue to hope that North Vietnam is also serious about peace."

That is the approach Rogers will present in his stop in Saigon. He will also impress on South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu that the United States has no intention of trying to force him and his regime to accept any of the unpalatable parts of the 10-point peace program presented by the Viet Cong, especially the replacement of Thieu's government by a coalition government including the Viet Cong.

At the same time, Rogers will try to advance the possibility of peace by securing from Thieu his minimum terms for peace so that the American negotiators at Paris will work hand in hand with the South Vietnamese. Rogers was called a superb negotiator by President Nixon when he appointed him. Here is his first chance to live up to his advance billing.

Apprehension Drops

Apprehension over crime has eased in the country as a whole. In big cities, apprehension continues.

These are some of the notable results of a new study by the Harris survey. Compared to a similar survey a year ago, it finds people in the small cities and towns find that crime has diminished in their areas. Only in the metropolitan cities is there the belief that crime has increased.

People are still concerned over mollycoddling of criminals. They believe the courts are too lenient with juvenile offenders. They are not happy over Supreme Court decisions protecting the rights of criminals.

Public endorsement and confidence in police protection has increased. Seven in ten believe the police are doing a good job. Of course, that is the crux of the crime problem. Strong law enforcement, supported by the courts, will bring down the incidence of crime. It is a long, hard road, but it pays off for the whole community.

"You're Next!"

David Lawrence Says

Climax Is in the Making: Nixon Will Meet Thieu

WASHINGTON — Bluffs and exchanges of statements primarily for publicity purposes are gradually giving way to realism in the maneuvers which are being made in the hope of bringing an end to the Vietnam War.

The United States has at last stated that it will not tolerate the continuance of heavy attacks on American and allied forces, and that drastic steps in reprisal have not been ruled out. This could mean the resumption at any moment of the bombing of North Vietnam and even a blockade of Haiphong Harbor.

So far the utterances have not been explicit, but there is no doubt about their implicit meaning. Thus, Secretary of Defense Laird was asked on Sunday, in an interview on ABC's "Issues and Answers," whether the time has come to say "cut bait or fish," and the United States would, "for example, resume the bombing of the North," Mr. Laird replied:

"I wouldn't want to rule out any military activity. I think that would be a mistake for us to announce on this program or at any time the various options that are available to us will never be used, and I have not made that a practice and would certainly stay away from it."

President Nixon, in his televised news conference on March 14, when asked whether his patience was wearing thin with the continued offensives by North Vietnam, referred to an earlier statement that an "appropriate response will be made to these attacks if they continue." He said that his policy is to "issue a warning only once," and added that "anything that in the future is done will be done—there will be no additional warning."

A climax is in the making. President Nixon has decided it is essential for him to have a personal interview with President Thieu of South Vietnam so that there will be no question about the fidelity of this country to the cause of self-determination, which has been the principal issue of the war.

Secretary of State Rogers has been traveling in Southeast Asia, including a visit to Saigon. He declared significantly that "we have commitments here and we are going to live up to them," and said that "it's up to Hanoi to decide whether there's going to be peace or a continued conflict in Vietnam."

At Bangkok, speaking at a meeting of the ministerial council of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, he pledged again that the United States will carry out its obligation under the treaty. Mr. Rogers' assurance means that the United States is not going to pull out of Vietnam and let the Communists take control. Also, America is well aware that North Vietnam has not been carrying on peace negotiations at Paris in good faith. When this country halted the bombing, it was assumed that some measure of reciprocity would be undertaken by North Vietnam. But there have since been a number of enemy offensives, and the United States is suffering casualties every day. The news dispatches tell of battles in different parts of South Vietnam, and there is no sign that the Communists are going to reduce their military activities.

The United States cannot let the negotiations at Paris drag on while American troops are killed day after day. Due to political pressure at home, some American forces will undoubtedly be withdrawn provided the South Vietnamese army is able to take over in certain areas. This, however, is a gesture which does not materially affect the military situation.

The Hanoi Government and its ally, the Viet Cong, demand that the United States get out of Vietnam unconditionally. This, of course, is rejected by President Nixon, who has made it clear that, while some things can be negotiated, there has to be an assurance that the aggressions will not be repeated and that the people of South Vietnam will not be left to the mercy of the North Vietnamese.

Indeed, if the negotiations get nowhere and the fighting is not abated, there is a likelihood that America and its allies will exercise their option to resume the bombing and intensify military activity. The United States is earnestly seeking a settlement, but it will not stand off indefinitely while the other side shows no real intention of ending the war. That's the word from the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense and the spokesmen of the United States at the Paris Peace Conference.

Rockefeller Will Decide Fate Of 923 Bills by Next Monday

By CHARLES DUMAS

Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller is out to show that, if a governor really puts his mind to it, he can handle the old 30-day, bill-juggling chore in something like six days.

The State Constitution gives him 30 days to mull over the produce of the legislature's annual session, after it adjourns.

But, determined to resume his Latin-American tour next week, Rockefeller intends to dispose of 923 measures in the six-day span between yesterday, Wednesday and next Monday.

In a pen-wielding exercise that might intimidate lesser executives, Rockefeller's plan was to do his duty in two sittings—handling one big batch of bills on Wednesday and the balance on Monday.

If he succeeds, he will close his books six days before the June 1 deadline for action. He will use that time to travel through such countries as Columbia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia.

Earlier, the governor took eight days from his bill-signing period to tour seven other nations on his fact-finding mission for President Nixon, leaving a net of only 16 days to work on bills.

The 923 measures he encountered on his return do not constitute this year's full, 30-day compulsion. The 1969 session, a highly productive one, left him a total of 1,141 bills, and he signed or vetoed 218 before leaving on his first trip.

But, by normal standards, 923 bills do represent a full month's work. The number is roughly the average Rockefeller handled during the bill periods of recent years and is slightly higher than the annual 30-day volume processed by his immediate predecessors, Democrat Averell Harriman and Republican Thomas E. Dewey.

Dewey and Harriman might be the first to say that you just can't make decisions on that many bills in six days. Mechanically, at least, Rockefeller's aides would be tempted to agree.

The fact is that the heaviest burden of the hurry-up falls on the governor's legal counsel, Robert R. Douglass, and his eight young lawyer-assistants.

Their job is to scrutinize each bill before it is brought to the governor's attention, collecting the opinions of interested persons for or against the measure and preparing a statement of the staff's own views.

If a bill is to be signed, and it is a significant one, Douglass and his aides write a memo for the governor to issue with it. Most bills are signed without such memos.

If a measure is to be vetoed, however, Rockefeller's policy has been always to issue an explanatory memo. That means extra work for the overworked counsels.

But they haven't flinched, at least in recent years. Like his predecessors, Rockefeller has rejected about one in four bills.

All of the pertinent material is assembled with each measure in a bulky pasteboard "bill jacket," and Douglass and helpers stagger into the governor's office with their arms overflowing.

Each bill is presented to the governor, who listens to the staff recommendation then makes his own decision. Most often he concurs—but not always.

How long will it take to decide the fate of 923 bills? Nobody can say exactly. But, even at the brisk rate of a bill a minute, more than 15 hours would be required—with no interruptions.

The governor will be taking a call next Monday.

Drew Pearson Says Thurmond, Bride Have Spats; Junketeers Fly to England

WASHINGTON — Apparently the honeymoon is over for Sen. Strom Thurmond, a spry 66, and his bride Nancy, a shapely 22.

Old Strom sternly lectured Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas on the Senate floor in 1966 for marrying a girl in her 20s. Not long after, the South Carolina Senator began holding hands with Nancy Moore, who had been Miss South Carolina of 1966.

They were married just before Christmas at a private ceremony that was staged in Aiken, S.C., with all the secrecy of one of Strom's military operations. A major general in the Army Reserve, he used to command the Army Reserve unit on Capitol Hill.

The couple settled blissfully in Harbour Square, a plush apartment complex, where Hubert Humphrey also lives. There was only one hitch: Strom's new mother-in-law, Mrs. Paul Moore, moved in with them during the honeymoon and stayed for weeks.

On at least one occasion, the Senator and Mrs. Moore drove off to the Capitol together, leaving the young bride behind. As the car took off, Sen. Thurmond turned to his wife and instructed her in a fatherly tone: "Now you go back upstairs and finish your cereal."

The other morning Strom and "Moose," as the new Mrs. Thurmond is known to friends, were quarreling when they emerged from their apartment. The argument became more heated as they prepared to drive to Capitol Hill. Suddenly, the Senator from South Carolina barged out of the car, slammed the door and abandoned his bride in the exit lane.

He approached the next car in line and demanded: "Are you going to Capitol Hill?"

The driver shook his head negatively but said he would be glad to take a detour to accommodate the Senator.

"Never mind," grumped Thurmond. "I'll find someone else." And he continued down the line of cars looking for a ride.

Note: Sen. Thurmond and Justice Douglas, who stand at opposite ends of the political spectrum, have much in common when it comes to women. Not only did both choose wives young enough to be their granddaughters, but both previously married women less than half their age. When Strom was the 44-year-old governor of his state, he married another Miss South Carolina, 21-year-old Jean Crouch.

Both Thurmond and Douglas are also physical fitness buffs who keep in athletic trim for their young wives. Douglas likes the outdoor life—hiking, camping, mountain climbing. Thurmond does push-ups, hoists a barbell high over his bald head and, to improve his circulation, stands on his head.

Traveling Congressmen

A party of Congressmen flew off to England and Wales the other day to gather information that they could have obtained by attending one of their own hearings.

Their pretext for the trip was to find out what the British and Welsh are doing about coal dust. Yet five of the seven junketeers weren't interested enough in coal dust to attend a hearing on the subject on the eve of their junket.

They could have learned all they wanted to know about the coal dust problem in British-Welsh mines by walking down the corridor to their hearing room. Jethro Gough, perhaps the foremost expert on coal dust in the British Isles, was available to answer questions.

As head of the Welsh National School of Medicine, Gough has performed 20,000 autopsies on coal miners to discover what coal dust does to their lungs. He testified that coal dust could be fatal to miners who inhaled enough of it. He had seen cases of miners dying from black lung as early as age 44.

Only Rep. John Dent of Pennsylvania, Rep. Patsy Mink of Hawaii, both Democrats and Rep. John Erlenborn of Illinois, a Republican, bothered to attend the hearings. But when Dent proposed a junket to the British Isles to study coal dust, five Congressmen who wouldn't walk down the corridor were eager to fly across the Atlantic to investigate the problem.

They were Reps. Roman Pucinski of Illinois, Augustus Hawkins of California, Louis Stokes of Ohio, and Bill Clay of Missouri, all Democrats, also Earl Landgrebe of Indiana, and Orval Hansen of Idaho, both Republicans. Dent and Erlenborn, though already steeped in coal dust lore, also made the trip. Only Patsy Mink saw no need to travel all the way to Europe for information about coal dust.

In fairness, Stokes has demonstrated intense interest in the coal dust problem. He personally inspected several Pennsylvania mines and later joined in sponsoring a tough bill to protect miners from black lung.

Other Sources Available

If the Congressmen simply wanted to take a trip, they could have saved the taxpayers a lot of money by flying up to Pittsburgh earlier this month for the American Mining Congress's annual coal convention. It was attended by several British coal experts, including George W. Sanders of Britain's National Coal Board, who would have been willing to tell the Congressmen all about coal dust in the British Isles.

For that matter, the Congressmen could merely have sent a messenger to the Bureau of Mines in downtown Washington to pick up detailed reports on what England and Wales are doing about coal dust. The Bureau of Mines has already spent a considerable amount of the taxpayers' money to send expeditions into the British coal dust country. The first trip produced all the information that either Congress or the Bureau should need about their coal dust problem.

A four-man government team made this trip last October—Frank C. Memmott and Earle P. Shoub, mining experts from the Bureau of Mines; also Dr. Marcus Key and Dr. W.D.C. Morgan, medical experts from the Public Health Service. Their 35-page report, entitled "Trip Report: England and Wales," should have been adequate to make Washington fully informed on coal dust in those countries.

However, another government mining expert, Henry Doyle, insisted upon seeing the problem for himself and wangled a trip to Britain in February to study coal dust. Now he has gone back again, accompanying the Congressmen as their coal dust adviser.

Henry J. Taylor Says The Real Woodrow Wilson

On May 7, 1915, the Germans torpedoed the Lusitania, with the loss of 1,198 lives. She lies on her starboard side, her four funnels broken away under their own weight, 310 feet down in the quiet, calm waters off Old Head of Kinsale, Ireland, her broken body lit like faint moonlight by the sunshine filtering from the surface.

She helped create one of the most tragic and totally unfair moral misjudgments of man in the entire history of the United States.

The man was President Woodrow Wilson.

Former President Theodore Roosevelt had elected Dr. Wilson President in 1912 by splitting the Republican party with his Bull Moose party.

Wilson received 6.3 million votes; incumbent president William Howard Taft polled 3.5 million and Roosevelt 4.2 million in the split.

Berlin kept President Wilson talking in order to keep him neutral. The war was going marvelously for the German Kaiser.

The ghastly British losses on the Somme in 1916 included 60,000 casualties there in a single day. Over a million Allied losses in the five-month Somme battle were for nothing. The German Hindenburg Line of defenses was still unbreached.

The French had been drained white at Verdun. More than 250,000 men were killed there and 300,000 wounded in an area the size of New York City's Central Park. It was the bloodiest battle of all time.

Russian Gen. Aleksei Brusilov's spectacular offensive on the Eastern front in 1916, "the greatest Russian victory of the war," had spent itself by September. The Russians fought and died in the Tannenberg swamps with futile courage. Before long the Bolsheviks were to choose Russia's darkest moment for their attack inside Russia and make a separate peace with Germany. Lenin was in the pay of the Germans. As early as 1905 he was publishing a clandestine newspaper in Switzerland and his Communist colleague, Ossip Platnitsky, whom he later murdered, was smuggling it into Russia.

The Germans brought Lenin out of Zurich, traveled him across Germany in a sealed train, and put him back into Russia for the purpose of his revolution.

Combined with this catastrophe to the Allies, the Allied front was to crumble in Italy under German-Austrian attack. The Italians had gone to war against Germany only that August. But they had been bitterly fighting the Austrians since early 1915.

Now the German-Austrian forces assaulted Codorna, fanned out and suddenly crushed the huge Italian salient at this apex.

The Communist Fifth Column in Italy cooperated with the invaders. Italian losses reached the appalling total of 750,000 men.

Both England and France were short of recruits to make up the loss. In fact, their immense losses forced them to eliminate, by consolidation, 40 divisions in order to increase their remaining divisions to battle strength.

The twin blows of the Communist separatist peace with Germany and the Italian collapse were to cost our country dearly. Replacements could come only from the United States. Originally President Wilson asked for a draft of 500,000 men. A new draft of two million more Americans had to be called.

President Wilson read aloud to his wife from the Bible every night during the war. Repeatedly he turned to II Corinthians, Chapter 4, Verses 8-9: "We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down but not destroyed."

But the President had been re-elected largely on the appeal: "He kept us out of war."

The memory of Woodrow Wilson suffers grievously to this day by the encrusted charge that he was opportunistic. He was not a simple, uncomplicated man but nothing could be a more false reading of his character.

All White House and State Department documents clearly prove the opposite. Indisputably, they show that Woodrow Wilson did believe he could keep this country out of the war. All records prove that it did not seem conceivable to him that the Kaiser's government, with the sinking of the Lusitania, German Foreign Secretary Zimmerman's note involving Germany in a Mexican plot on our border, etc., would persist in being so incredibly stupid as to force us in. Or read President Wilson's poignant, heartbreaking masterpiece at the American Army graveyard at Suresnes, France, May 30, 1919, and let justice be done to the record and to the man.

The City Library

Editor, The Freeman:

The City of Kingston should be commended on its outstanding city library. That a city of this size can support such an institution is truly remarkable.

The shelves are filled with a wealth of fiction (although a few have been temporarily roped off due to falling plaster). For the more serious reader, technical works may be obtained through the library exchange, in over a week. There are many old books available for the reader who likes to browse—a 19th Century Kingston Phone Directory was recently discovered in one out of the way corner by an enterprising browser. The collection of old books is supplemented by the micro film volumes, for which a spacious viewing facility is available.

Overall, I should like to congratulate all persons who have had a part in building this magnificent edifice—it certainly puts those of surrounding areas, such as Poughkeepsie and Stone Ridge Community College, to shame.

I feel the movie is ideal for children pre-school and over but with the help of parents to explain details at home. Many children attending the movie were without parents and I feel it should be stated that children must be accompanied by a parent or the movie just becomes a night out and is forgotten when they leave.

I also have a three-year old daughter at home and I hope the movie becomes a yearly event so she will have an opportunity to see it also. We have always tried to explain to our children the danger of strangers since we live off the main road and many strangers do get lost and end up by our house. I changed our views on that matter. The movie would have been a complete success except for the fact that our borrowed projector was not working and man-hours of your properly and the movie was delayed for over an hour. It was prevented by the showing of this movie should surely be seems a shame that the Sheriff's department is unable to get funds to buy a projector for their own use. Several lengths, in fact. Like: offering pickup boxes that range in length from six-and-one-half feet to a king-size nine-footer.

No matter what size you prefer, you're going to get a full measure of Chevy's Pacesetter Value with each model. For instance: the biggest power choice among popular pickups. Six or V8. Including a hill-climbing 350-cu.-in. V8.

You're also going to get the smoothest ride this side of a passenger car. Thanks to an all-steel independent front suspension that refuses to acknowledge bumps.

Inside the double-steel cabs, you're going to find such Pacesetter Values as thick foam seats. Which provide stretch-out room for three. And you'll discover that safety features surround you like a security blanket: four-way flashers, seat belts, dual braking system, padded sun visors and more.

Besides all the built-in Pacesetter Values, there's plenty you can order. Everything from power steering to chrome wheel covers.

Wrap it all up in a small price and it becomes pretty clear: Chevy will go to great lengths to please you.

Dye Continues His Attacks

TOWN OF KINGSTON

Douglas V. Dye, majority leader of the Ulster County Legislature, continued his attack today on what he termed "a small group of political opportunists who are using the Republican County Committee as a vehicle to gain control of the party."

In doing so, Dye reinforced his previous charge of party bossism on the part of these men, and in this instance, spoke particularly of a few of the Republican committeemen from the town of Ulster.

Supporting this charge, Dye told of hearings he attended before the town of Ulster group than those I have attempted to bring before the voters of Ulster County. These committeemen seek only the control of the Republican party in this county, and that includes its candidates. Thus, to these men, achievement, years spent working on the behalf of those people I represent mean nothing, because such actions do not offer these men the opportunity to further their own personal goals."

"And yet, the same accomplishments that these few committeemen choose to ignore are largely responsible for bringing me my position as majority leader of the Ulster County Legislature, a post given to me by my fellow Republican legislators, and one which I consider a great honor. These men seem to think enough of my record and my concern for the people of this county to elect me as their spokesman on the floor of the legislature; and yet, certain Republican committeemen don't seem to think enough of them to wish to renominate me as their candidate. In my mind, this vast difference of opinion rests squarely on the shoulders of this handful of Republican committeemen who view other's accomplishments only in terms of what it achieves for them."

Dye continued: "I can see no reasons for their actions other

RHINEBECK The low bid of $1,075 was reviewed at a recent board meeting, but some question arose as to whether the bid included boring through some slabs of concrete remaining after the Williams Lumber Company building had been demolished. This problem was resolved positively.

"Boring should begin the end of this week," said Sipperley. "The next step will be bids on general construction." Estimated cost was $75,000 for the voter referendum.

Tyrrell, Dye Gain Top Slots On Ballots

KINGSTON James J. Tyrrell, candidate for the Republican nomination to run for mayor of Kingston and Douglas V. Dye, Republican candidate for nomination as legislator in District Two, will appear at the top of their party's respective ballots for the June 17 runoff.

Drawings were held this morning at the Ulster County Board of Elections offices. Tyrrell is the city's GOP unofficial nominee while Dye, the majority leader of the Legislature, is seeking the nomination in District Two.

John R. Mayone, former city GOP Chairman will appear in the second slot on the ballot and Clifford V. Bunting will appear third.

District Two includes the towns of Kingston, Ulster, Hurley and Marlborough. Five legislators will be nominated.

They will appear in the following order: 1. Dye, 2. Robert Kelder Sr., 3. Richard D. Nace Sr., 4. Louis Hall, 5. Charles Reylea, 6. Lester C. Elmdorf.

Wants Brook Flooding Fixed

KINGSTON James J. Tyrrell, a Republican candidate for mayor, has proposed an extensive survey of the Tannery Brook area of the city for the purpose of eliminating serious flooding of the brook.

Tyrrell said his administration would attempt to cover the brook where several properties are affected. He said it could not be done in one year but that the brook could be covered in certain sections each year until the hazards are eliminated.

Tyrrell said "serious flooding" occurs in the First, Second, Third and Fourth Wards of the city. Alderman John Machione (R-Second Ward) has gone on record at the last three Common Council meetings and several times last year asking for corrective action from the city.

Charge Against Youth Withdraw

NEW PALTZ A charge of criminal possession of a dangerous drug, second degree, lodged by State Police on March 15 against George Lucci, 18, of Minnewaska Trail, Gardiner, has been withdrawn and the youth has been cleared of the charge.

Town Justice Rexford Schneider permitted the withdrawal of the charge and dismissed the information on motion of Atty. Richard W. Lent on the grounds there was insufficient evidence to warrant continuation of the case.

Car Demolished By Freight Train

HYDE PARK While a 28-year-old Poughkeepsie man was seeking assistance to free his car that was stuck between railroad tracks on a Penn-Central crossing near here at 1:45 a. m. today, a freight train came along and slammed into the vehicle.

Chief Detective Charles Borchers of the Dutchess County sheriff's office, said Robert H. Coles, of 7 Elm Place, drove from the Riverdale Boat Basin parking lot and headed for home, when his vehicle became wedged between the tracks.

Coles left the disabled vehicle and went for assistance. He was too late.

A 63-car freight train piloted by James Smith, engineer, of Selkirk rounded the bend and crashed into the car which was virtually splintered.

Coles left the wreckage and was given a ride home by friends.

Hough was treated at Vassar Hospital for laceration of the right knee and leg and multiple cuts of the scalp. He was admitted for further treatment and observation.

Bell Gets Assignment on State Reapportionment Committee

KINGSTON Two new legislative assignments have been given Assemblyman H. Clark Bell according to announcement made by Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea.

Bell will serve on the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment and as a member of the Temporary State Commission to study future water supply needs in Southeastern New York.

Speaking with the Freeman this morning, Bell said he was extremely pleased with his assignment to the reapportionment committee especially because it deals with an area he has had under study for four years as a member of the Constitutional Convention.

Conservation Training

A conservation training day for adult leaders was recently held at Boy Scout Camp Tri-Mount Reservation. As Tri-Mount has a water and soil erosion problem in some areas, a large log type open culverts was constructed to help ease the problem.

The adult Scouters were also taken on a tour of the some 30 acres and given instruction and advice as to where many other conservation projects could be undertaken. These included brushing out forest fire truck trails, clump planting for wild life habitat, brush dams on a stream, pruning apple trees, thinning hardwood for forest stand improvement, clearing trees for a marsh pond and outpost camp site and constructing more log type culverts.

It is hoped by the conservation committee that much of this will be done on an individual troop basis, with the leaders doing the directing. All ranks in scouting require a conservation project.

Those attending were Vernon Chadderton Troop 43, Cairo, Lawrence Lamane, Troop 43, Cairo, Bill Metzler, Scoutmaster Troop 43, Cairo, Ray Adams, Troop 43, Cairo, Ralph Partington Jr., Troop 72, Marlboro, Dick Redder, Troop 32, Saugerties, John Helmer, District Scout Executive and Council Conservation Chairman Ted Brooks of Highland who was in charge and directed the days program.

The Minnewaska Trails District (Southern Ulster) plans a conservation weekend at Camp Tri-Mount May 23-24-25 with approximately 200 Scouts and 20 Leaders and will plant 9,000 seedlings and participate in numerous other conservation projects. An enjoyable and informative day was had by all.

Engineers Host Presentation

Doctor Unveils Meter Reading Invention

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Dr. William W. Jaxheimer of Wall Street addressed a local group of engineers Wednesday night and displayed his invention that may make the meter reader a part of folklore.

The doctor's invention, for which a patent is pending, is called a remote automatic meter readout system. It is designed to read all meters, gas, electric or water, at the subscriber's home and transmit the data back to a central station.

Faster and Cheaper

This is a job now done by the nation's meter readers. Dr. Jaxheimer thinks his device can do it faster, more accurately and more economically.

The Kingston physician spoke before a meeting of the Ulster County Chapter of the New York State Professional Engineers Society at the Kirkland Hotel last night.

Jaxheimer said he will use any royalties on the sale of his device for the establishment of an independent cancer research program. Several engineers expressed interest in joining Dr. Jaxheimer's cancer project last night.

Dr. Jaxheimer's idea of an automatic meter reading device is not a new one. In fact, a similar device was unveiled in New York City recently, but to date appears too expensive to implement. The other device sends its signals through telephone lines, an apparent economical drawback, which Dr. Jaxheimer says does not affect his device. The Jaxheimer model can transmit through coaxial cables, if desired.

Dr. Jaxheimer envisions his device attached to "every meter in the country," eventually. After that a computer could be brought in to monitor the meters, giving instantaneous readings whenever desired.

The meters would be hooked onto a circuit and readings would be available by sending a signal from the central station. Dr. Jaxheimer also has an alternative setup called a sequential readout system where the first meter on the line is read and in turn activates the rest of the meters on that particular line. That system is less expensive than a system that reads all the meters at once, its inventor says.

The problem now appears to be convincing a company to manufacture the device which would involve further testing. Dr. Jaxheimer, as his presentation, had a working model of the meter reading device and it appears to work well in theory, it now costs the utilities an average of six dollars per customer per year for its meter-reading services.

The utilities would have to decide whether or not the device would prove practical from an economic viewpoint, in the long run. It is estimated that the initial cost of development and implementation of his device is "economical, fool-proof, durable under all circumstances, accurate and has a longevity of 100 years." The

But then, if confidence is any yardstick, Dr. Jaxheimer should have a going thing. He claims utilities.

Fish: No Easy Solution to PO Woes

The issue of greatest concern to residents of the 28th Congressional District is the proposed increase in postal rates, according to Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. who said that judging by the weight of mail he has been receiving on the subject, it is one of the most controversial.

Fish said that President Nixon's request for a seven-cent first class rate had hardly been announced when he started receiving letters and cards opposing the raise with a peak of 125 in one day.

"Certainly the idea of such an increase is of just concern, coming as it does on top of repeated rate increases of the past two years," Fish said.

"The request for such a rate hike is still another clear indication of the chaotic condition of our Post Office Department, with its unbusinesslike operations and poor morale. If there is any question of this, one has only to realize that our present operations saddles the general taxpayer with a $1.2 billion additional tax burden to make up the annual postal deficit.

"Certainly no solution to this is easy. The President has already taken the first step in taking politics out of the Post Office. But obviously many other steps remain to be taken.

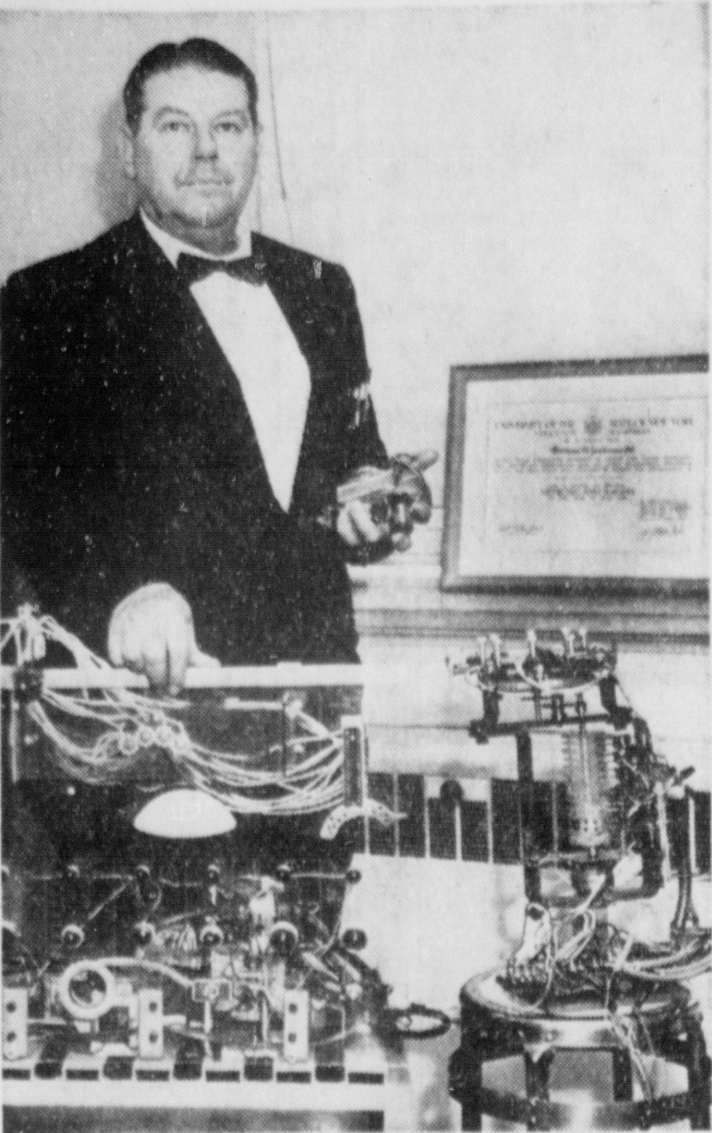

"Our postal service, once the most efficient in the world, has gone too far down the road toward higher and higher costs, and lower efficiency to be bailed out by some simple panacea. Certainly not by simply slapping an addition of one more penny on the first class rate," Congressman Fish stated.

"At the present time, the Post Office Committee of the House is holding hearings on the entire operation of the Postal Department. Legislation for a general reform and modernization of the Department will undoubtedly result from this work. The basic suggestion under study is the Kappel Commission report, that proposed turning the postal operation into a non-profit government corporation.

"I believe my colleagues in Congress share with me the belief that general overhaul and reform must come before any consideration is given to yet another postal hike, and are awaiting the results of the committee hearings with this in their mind," Fish said.

"The idea of cutting out junk mail completely, a move many suggest, unfortunately would not provide an answer to the problem. It takes 11 handlings for each first class letter, with only six for third or bulk class mail. If all rates were raised to first class every indication points to another postal hike, and the fact that a substantial number of advertisers would switch their mailings to first class," he added.

Woolworth Plans for Expansion

F. W. Woolworth Co. has announced plans to add 19,100,000 square feet in an expansion and modernization program during the next three years. The schedule includes Woolworth, Woolco Department Stores, Kinney Shoe and Richman Brothers stores.

The three-year projection does not include expansion by its unconsolidated subsidiary, F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd., Great Britain.

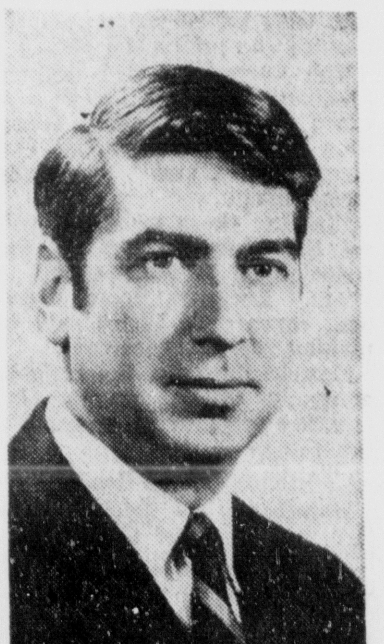

Programmed construction of the consolidated companies will provide 624 new retail units, the modernization and enlargement of 185 units and the construction of 25 additional Harvest House cafeterias, the announcement said.

Realization of this expansion program will be dependent on the ability of developers and landlords to fulfill commitments faced with tax changes and credit conditions.

Sales for the first quarter of this year totaled $418,901,232, an increase of 16.3 per cent over the same period in 1968. Sales of the consolidated companies during the last nine years nearly doubled, increasing from $986,213,902 to $1,907,284,014 in 1968. Woolworth executives reported, noting, "we expect our consolidated sales in 1969 to increase 16 per cent over 1968, and are confident that our sales increase next year will outperform the national sales average."

"In observance of our 90th anniversary during 1969 we are giving an extra push to our long-term drive for expansion in the retail field," said Robert C. Kirkwood, chairman, and Lester A. Burcham, president. They added: "With the momentum we've created and with the expansion programmed, we are confident that 1969 will mark the beginning of another decade of the greatest growth in the history of Woolworth."

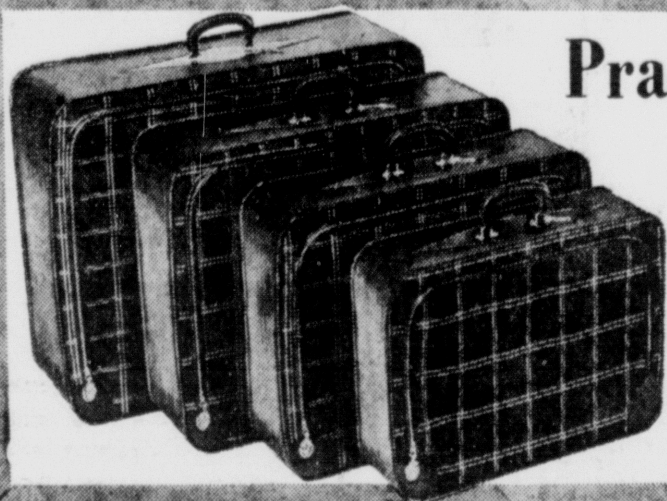

"This year's regular quarterly dividend was increased by 20 per cent from 25 to 30 cents," they said, and added, "the next dividend will be the 228th consecutive dividend paid out by the company. Dividends paid out to date total more than a billion dollars."

APPOINTMENT — John LaGorga of the Town of Saugerties has been appointed controller for the Ferroxcube Systems Division, according to an announcement by John J. Doherthy, corporate vice-president and division general manager. In his new position, LaGorga will be responsible for all division accounting and data systems operations.

Style Isn't Everything in a Political Race but It Helps to Win Votes

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Style isn't everything in a political race, but it helps.

From the time of Al Smith to the present Governor Rockefeller, top political leaders in New York State showed style—he in a smile, a handshake or a speech. And this quality has gathered in many a vote for the office seeker.

It was once said of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that he had the habit of using his eyes to underscore his political speeches. One of his biographers said "at times he could pop them, almost audibly."

The handshake, smile and "hiya fella" of Rockefeller are familiar political instruments used almost constantly by the governor in his campaign travels.

The brown derby of former Governor Smith was widely known and accepted as part of the political makeup just like the Rockefeller grin. Former Governor Averell Harriman was probably the more polished chief executive. His Harvard accent, jutting jaw and forced smile moved across the state's political stage in all too short a time.

Although Mayor John Lindsay has more problems than a shaggy dog in a patch of burr weeds, he can manage a winning smile. The mayor also is more widely known for his walking inspections of the troubled areas of "Fun City."

School Budgets—A Revolt

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "If you can't read this as a taxpayer revolt, then you have to go back to school."

This was how a Long Island school board official angrily summed up the crashing defeats voters are dealing to school budgets in New York State this year.

By the end of last week, 46 districts had their proposed spending plans turned down.

And that, it is feared, is just a start for 1969.

Voters Hit Back

"The voters are hitting back," says Fred S. Painter, school superintendent in Brighton, near Rochester.

"I know a lot of young people who are very, very squeezed," Painter explained. "They don't know how to make ends meet month to month, and this has a lot to do with the pattern of negative votes."

Brighton's proposed budget is expected to climb by about $500,000, to $7 million. It will be voted on next month.

There are 759 districts in the state in which voters act on school budgets. Last year, there were 76 budget rejections, or 10 per cent.

Education officials are reluctant to predict what will happen in district voting this June and July, when most spending proposals will be decided.

"I just hope sweet reason takes over before our children get hurt," Clarence E. Olmstead, district principal in Churchville-Chilip also near Rochester, said recently.

"The people are in mass hysteria," Olmstead added. "They can't do anything about village, town, city, state or national taxes, but they can do something about school taxes."

Many district budgets were approved in May, but the State Education Department says it does not yet have enough reports to compare them with known rejections.

Many Pare Budgets

Meanwhile, many boards of education are paring their proposed spending plans in anticipation of voter hostility.

In the Horseheads Central School District, near Elmira, the board eliminated 23 positions, including those of an elementary school principal guidance counselor and a music teacher.

The proposed budget for Corning calls for elimination of 19 positions.

At Watkins Glen, a proposed cut of $78,000 is anticipated. The high school principal may be moved into a regular teaching job, with the superintendent to assume the principal's duties.

The Lockport board decided to delete from the 1969-70 program driver education, freshman football and basketball and elementary and secondary string music.

"Cutting these programs will set the education level of the school district back about 10 years," Lockport Board President Howard L. Ulrich said in making the announcement.

Despite the cuts, the budgets generally will be up sharply, meaning a jump in property-tax rates.

Sums Up the Bond

Horseheads officials hope that, as a result of the job cut-back, they can hold the tax rate to 11 per cent.

The educators' bind was summed up by Glenn Clark, school superintendent in Fulton, Oswego County.

"We are in a precarious financial situation occasioned by the estimate of substantially less state aid, inflated costs of supplies, equipment and salaries," Clark said.

To compound the problem, another official added, "it's now fashionable to vote down school budgets."

Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz is around Capitol Hill that Rockefeller leans heavily on "Louie", voices of Sens. Seymour Thaler and Manfred Ohrenstein. Another quality highly regarded in politics is a sense of humor and when the occasion arises two legislators—Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Moses Weinstein—walk off with top honors.

Politics also is a serious business and no one can be more serious when the time calls for legislative procedures even than Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilentz. There have been many times in State Senate debates when Wilson was called on to politics and it won him praise as well as votes.

Former President John Kennedy was described as a deep thinking president with a rare sense of humor and a diplomatic approach to the business of politics.

Fresh Air Fund Seeks Families To Aid Program

SAUGERTIES On July 30 a bus load of children from the Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund will arrive at Saugerties Bus Terminal.

Each of the children will have an anxious host family waiting to share their home with the child for two weeks. These underprivileged boys and girls range in age from 5 to 12 and will visit here until Aug. 13.

Mrs. Patricia Kramer, a member of the local committee explains her feelings about the program.

"What really is required of a host family? Not much — just an open door to your house and one to your heart. These fresh air children require so little as they appreciate the little things so much.

"Our guest last year thought he was getting the biggest treat in the world when we bought him an ice cream cone — our own boys were asking for sundaes and shakes. One of his biggest boys was getting in the bathtub all alone. He has 10 brothers and sisters at home and had never been able to swim in the tub before.

"There are many more experiences I could elaborate on but I think my biggest reason for wanting this child may be considered selfish. I feel my children have learned more from this two-week experience than I could teach them in a year.

"Why be a host family? Call Mr. and Mrs. Scott Gilpin, 246-8077 to find out how you may give a city child a taste of life.

The morning session of the workshop was spent in listening to Mrs. Decker's instruction, and seeing her demonstration of arranging. After lunch sessions provided opportunity for members of the club to try their hands at approved floral arranging methods.

Mrs. Decker was presented to the group by Mrs. Brendan Dooley, program chairman. Workshop hostesses were Mrs. George Jorgenson, Mrs. Frank Greco and Mrs. E. Robert Johnson.

Some months ago representatives of the organization discussed with me various projects through which the Jaycees could provide a service to the community and the schools.

"We agreed that it would be an excellent idea to have an open meeting at which the school financial operations and coming budget could be explained. The Jaycees provided

Rhinebeck Facility — 3 Categories of Youth

Teen Challenge - - Strange, Wonderful Success Story

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK The Rev. David Wilkerson crossed the George Washington Bridge in 1957 with $75 in his pocket and a vague yearning to aid some juvenile delinquents, accused of murder, in Manhattan.

Today, 26 induction centers for kids in trouble, four rehabilitation centers and a ministerial training school are the fruits of his, and hundreds of others', labors.

For Troubled Youth

Teen Challenge is based in Brooklyn. It might be described as a unique, philanthropic, spiritual rehabilitation center for troubled youth such as dope addicts, alcoholics, prostitutes, juvenile delinquents, and others.

The Teen Challenge Institute of Missions is located on River Road in the Town of Rhinebeck. It was purchased in September 1964 and consists of 100 acres with a 38-room three-story Georgian mansion, formerly part of the Astor Estate.

The property was used by the organization as a girls' school until the mission preparation facility was begun in April of 1966. The Rev. John Kinzie is presently the director.

In speaking with the Rev. Mr.

Kinzie, an ordained Assembly of God minister, we found the guiding principles behind the strange and wonderful success story of Teen Challenge.

David Wilkerson, a Phillipsburg, Pa., minister, felt his call to New York City when the Michael Farmer murder case was being highly publicized. Seven hoodlums had beaten up the crippled youth in a park and killed him. When Wilkerson saw the expression on one boy's face in Life magazine, he felt compelled to try to help the delinquents.

Contact with numerous gang leaders ultimately culminated in establishing a center in Bedford-Stuyvesant to aid those afflicted with the sordid ailments of society, especially drugs.

The entire account of the struggle that Wilkerson and many associates went through to establish this aid center is recorded in a widely circulated book "The Cross and the Switchblade," which has sold more than four million copies.

Why aren't these gangs prevalent any more in New York?

"Because heroin has become so widespread that the gangs broke up," explained the Rev. Kinzie. "The kids are all out looking after themselves, and can't get interested in the rumblings of the 1950s."

Authorities claim that no cure is possible for one "hooked" on the hard stuff, heroin. More than 90 per cent of those leaving treatment centers go right back on it when they hit the streets.

Remarkable Effort

In the light of this, the figure of 78 per cent "cures" claimed by the Teen Challenge Institute is little short of remarkable. What could possibly be so effective?

The Assembly of God is a Pentecostal denomination. Emphasis is placed upon "speaking in tongues," or the "glossalitic experience." This was described by the Rev. Mr. Kinzie as the "power provided the individual to translate belief into function." It is this mystic experience that is claimed to be the transforming power within these former drags of society.

The boy, or girl, entering one of the 26 induction centers must "cold turkey," kick the habit, which is a violent physical reaction to the absence of narcotics in the bloodstream. But the hardest part is yet to come. The psychological dependence must be broken, and a positive substitute found.

REV. JOHN KINZIE

A Benedictine priest, the Rev. Killian McDonnell, said in "America," a Jesuit periodical, that "In the beginning the boys are put off by the Pentecostal jargon, but gradually they come to see that behind the over-precious talk there is solidity and a message of theological depth and relevance.

"In general, the preaching I heard was good, and in some private sources, such as church cases it was excellent. . . . At no time did I hear anything I would have had to reject as a Roman Catholic. Quite the opposite."

The Rhinebeck facility has three main categories of youth who attend. The first class graduated last year, after seven trimesters of our months each, totaling more than two years preparation for missionary work.

The Categories

The first category includes the youth from the streets who have become involved in Teen Challenge through personal experiences. About 20 per cent of those brought into the program attend some sort of Bible school afterwards. Most, in the case of New York, are either Puerto Rican or Negro.

A second category contains referrals from other church groups, who also desire to enter the Teen Challenge work with youth. Delinquent backgrounds are common.

And a third group is made up of general volunteers who wish to participate in the program. These are generally non-delinquents.

Funds for the mammoth undertaking come entirely from the part of Wilkerson in a movie, entitled "The Cross and the Switchblade" based on the book, but was rejected by the Board of Directors three years ago. Since then, Boone and his wife have both experienced the "glossalitic" transformation and the popular singer is, President Nixon was quoted producing the film himself. It is as saying, "America needs a moral revival."

Upon entering the Rhinebeck center, we noted that everyone walking through the halls carried a Bible. The youth take their role seriously; they have substituted God for heroin. And the amazing results thus far would seem to give the decided view were succinctly put, "The advantage to God."

A Link With Graham

An association with evangelist Billy Graham has been maintained over the years by the Institute, and several Teen Challenge youth will take an active part in the June 11 crusade scheduled for Madison Square Garden.

Newkirk Notes Mailbox Improvement

KINGSTON Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk calls attention to the observance of Mailbox Improvement Week, May 19-24.

Its purpose, Newkirk said is to point out the need for providing mail boxes which are designed to protect the mail from the weather, neat in appearance, conveniently located and safe to use.

On rural routes and box delivery star routes, mailboxes of the approved traditional or contemporary design are required, whenever a mailbox is newly installed or a present receptacle is replaced. Patrons still using obsolete, top opening boxes may continue to use them at the same location, provided they are kept in serviceable condition, and otherwise meet the requirements outlined above, he added.

Where the use of street names and house numbers has been authorized, the house number will be shown on the box. If the box is located on a street, the name of the owner must be other than the one on which the box is shown on the side of the box the patron resides, the street visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped. Patrons are encouraged to group boxes wherever this is practicable, especially at or near cross-roads, at service turnouts, or at other places where a considerable number of boxes are located.

Where the use of street names and house numbers has been authorized, the house number will be shown on the box. If the box is located on a street, the name of the owner must be other than the one on which the box is shown on the side of the box the patron resides, the street visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where these instances, the placing of the owner's name on the box is optional.

On city motorized routes with curbside delivery, the PM said, the box may be either the approved traditional rural type, the approved suburban box of contemporary design, or any mail receptacle which is conveniently located at the curb-protection for the mail against the weather. Boxes should be installed with the bottom of the box between 3½ and 4 feet from the roadway.

Rocky Pledges He Will Support Primary Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he will put "party unity" over personal preference and support the winner of the Republican mayoral primary, even if State Sen. John J. Marchi defeats Mayor John V. Lindsay, whom Rockefeller said he prefers, the general election.

Rockefeller said Wednesday he "personally" favors Lindsay, but would support Marchi if he wins the primary on June 17.

"My policy has always been to avoid primaries and to support Republican candidates in party backing," he told a place on the November ballot.

Haslam-DeBrosky Nuptials Announced

Miss Rochelle Dawn Haslam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor V. Haslam, Mt. Marion, became the bride of Donald Joseph DeBrosky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. DeBrosky, 95 Van Gaasbeck Street, Kingston, on Saturday, May 17, at St. Mary's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly officiated at the double ring ceremony. Theodore Riccobono, organist, accompanied Virginia Mancuso, who sang traditional wedding selections. Vases of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a floor-length, A-line gown of silk organza, styled with an empire bodice and long tapered sleeves. The gown and detachable chapel-length train featured appliques of wide Alencon lace banding. The silk illusion veil was shirred to a double-tiered crown of matching lace, edged with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of white roses and daisies.

Mrs. Sheila Haslam, sister-in-law of the bride, Saugerties, served as matron of honor. She wore a floor-length, A-line gown of pink linen blend, enhanced at the empire waist and sleeves with pink Venice lace banding. Her tulle flirtation veil was secured by a headpiece made of embroidered daisies and she carried a cascade of multi-

Kerhonkson Elementary Students Save 'Pennies' To Aid Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society Drive

Mrs. May E. Champagne, vocal music teacher of third and fourth graders at Kerhonkson Elementary School, recently forwarded a letter to Mike Bolger Philharmonic Society's Sustaining Drive now in progress and the cooperation of her students in the endeavor.

The letter reads:

Enclosed is a check for seven dollars and twenty-three cents ($7.23). Please accept it with gratitude. Boys and girls from four classes of third grade and three classes of fourth grade here at Kerhonkson saved pennies for two (2) weeks, voluntarily, to help support your campaign. They have gained a lot of knowledge from this activity and hope it will serve the interest of music in this area. Although the amount is not exorbitant to the degree an adult might give, these boy and girls gave up extra pleasures to give for your cause. Thank you for this opportunity to be of service to the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society.

The Philharmonic Society needs approximately $75,000 to sustain its operations in the three county area of Ulster, Dutchess and Orange, and the "spirit" behind the action of area children saving pennies to aid the cause is encouraging to the organization.

Quartet Wins in Competition

Kingston was well-represented the weekend of May 9-11, when the Colonial City Chapter of Sweet Adelines attended Competition in Boston, Mass. Quartet Competitions were Friday evening, and choruses competed all day Saturday. Critiques by the judges were crammed in during all-night sessions. Chorus and quartets were judged in the four categories of Music, Expression, Sound and Showmanship.

The Ban-Jos entered competition for the first time and were presented with two awards! The Novice Trophy for best new quartet; and Honorable Mention, fourth place. Eleven quartets competed. The winners were the Kipsie-Belles from Poughkeepsie.

The Chorus performed Saturday morning, placing 12th out of 23 competing groups. Wearing white flapper dresses, with red sparkled headbands and big red roses at the waist, the chorus sang "Down in the Garden where the Red Roses Grow" and "Broadway Rose." Members remarked "It is difficult to break into the top 10 because of small membership." Most of the top choruses have between 30 and 60 members. Colonial City had 21 women on stage. In order to attract more women, rehearsal night will be changed to Thursdays starting June 5 at St. James Methodist Church.

The winning Chorus was from Lynn, Mass., and scored highest in the Showmanship Category. Members were dressed in deep pink as bridesmaids and the director, hidden by the chorus until the singing began, came out of the group as the bride to direct, "Get Me to the Church on Time."

Twenty-one women returned from Boston determined to increase membership and inform the people of this area that in order to put "Kingston on the Sweet Adeline map," community support in the form of increased membership and sing-outs, is necessary.

Women who enjoy singing are invited to join. Organizations needing entertainment for dinners, parties, or meetings, are asked to contact Sweet Adelines; the Chorus and two quartets will perform for such functions. More information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Robert Bondar, Kingston.

Many Foods Not Barred in Diet to Reduce Heart Attack Risk

NOTE — (Moderate changes in the typical American diet can reduce the risk of heart attack, says the Mid-Hudson Heart Association. Medical and nutrition experts of the Association recommend a change to fat-controlled, low cholesterol meals. Today's article, the second in a series, tells how to perk up main courses while cutting down on your family's risk.)

The typical American diet is rich in foods which are high in cholesterol and animal (saturated) fats. These tend to raise the level of cholesterol in the blood and thus can contribute to the development of atherosclerosis, a form of hardening of the arteries which underlies most heart attacks. But many of the foods people prefer can remain in the diet, says the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, providing they are prepared properly and used less frequently.

In most meat meals for the week, the use of fish, chicken, turkey and veal is recommended. Beef, lamb, pork and ham should be limited to five moderate-sized portions per week; and lean cuts should be used.

But even lean meat has fat in it, so it should be cooked, where possible, on a meat rack so that the rendered fat can drain off. Wine, tomato juice or bouillon should be used instead of fat drippings to baste the meat. Stews and soup stocks should be cooked a day ahead and refrigerated so that the fat can be scooped off the top before it is served. In the following recipes, appetizing meat dishes are prepared with polyunsaturated vegetable oils:

Braised Veal with Herbs
2 pounds of veal cutlet
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 medium onions, cut into rings
1 clove garlic (optional)
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon crushed oregano
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Cut veal into serving size pieces. Heat oil in a large skillet. Add veal; cook until brown on both sides, remove from pan. Add onions and garlic; cook until onions are tender. Remove garlic; add veal, water, lemon juice, salt and oregano. Cover and simmer over low heat, turning meat occasionally, until meat is tender, about 30 minutes. Add additional water, if needed. Serve with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

BURGUNDY POT ROAST
1/2 cup vegetable oil
2 1/2 pounds bottom round of beef
3 tablespoons minced onion

1 1/2 cups sliced celery
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
2 cups bouillon
1/2 cup tomato puree
1/2 cup red wine
Heat oil in a large heavy kettle or Dutch oven. Add beef and cook over medium heat, turning to brown on all sides. Add remaining ingredients. Bring to boil; cover and continue cooking in 350 degrees (moderate) oven until tender, 2 1/2-3 hours. Makes 8 servings.

OVEN-BAKED CHICKEN WITH CORNFLAKE CRUMBS
1 frying chicken (2 1/2 to 3 pounds) cut into serving pieces.

1/4 to 1 cup cornflake crumbs
Vegetable oil
Seasoning is not necessary, as crumbs are tasty.

Remove skin from chicken parts; rinse chicken and dry thoroughly, place chicken on a large, flat platter; drizzle with oil and turn with a fork so that each piece is well oiled. Shake cornflake crumbs on to a large piece of wax paper. Lift chicken with a fork, shake off excess oil and coat well on all sides and crannies with the crumbs. Let chicken stand briefly so that coating will stick. Heat oven to 425 to 450 degrees. Warm large, flat baking pan, lightly oiled, and place chicken parts on pan (parts should not touch). Bake in hot oven for 45 minutes or more, depending on size of chicken. If dinner is not ready, oven can be turned down and chicken will stay fresh and juicy until ready to serve. The crumbs make a crisp "skin" for the chicken. Makes 4 servings.

For additional recipes and information on a heart-helping diet, ask the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, 72 Main Street, Kingston, for the companion booklets, "The Way to a Man's Heart," and "Recipes for Fat Controlled, Low Cholesterol Meals."

PUPILS OF CREEKSIDE STUDIO of dance, Drama and Speech Arts in Hurley, pause in their preparations for a private studio recital to listen to Marianne Darrow, studio director, read from "The Riccobono Brothers and their Famous Trained School Horses," a book written by Mrs. Emilia Riccobono Weyhe of Kingston. Mrs. Weyhe will be honored at a "Meet the Author Kaffee Klatsch" on Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m. at Creekside Studio, Old Route 209, Hurley. The private studio recital will precede the Kaffee Klatsch. Authentic Viennese kaffee and pastries will be served. The author will be delighted to autograph copies of her book. A limited number of reservations for the Kaffee Klatsch may be obtained by contacting Mrs. H. Van Wyck Darrow by Friday. There is no admission charge. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Local Chapter Members, Delta Kappa Gamma, Attend Assembly

The 33rd annual convention of Delta Kappa Gamma (Educational Honorary Professional Society) was held at Elmira recently. More than 200 teachers convened to give reports of their activities and to plan for future work and to listen to inspirational speakers. The local Alpha Chapter was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Denniston, the president of the chapter, along with Mrs. Irene Volklinger of Newburgh, Mrs. Pearl Rippert of Ellenville and Mrs. Frieda Dingee of Kingston.

One of the main activities discussed and acted upon at this convention was the awarding again of scholarships for two girls from the Onondaga Indian Reservation. One girl is attending State University College at Brockport and the other Niagara University. Both of these girls will become teachers. The education of these students through their four years of college is being sponsored by Delta Kappa Gamma.

Mrs. Frieda Dingee, State Chairman of the scrapbook committee, presented the awards for the most outstanding scrapbook in different categories. Mrs.

Denniston took part in the Necrology Service to pay tribute to the memory of Mrs. Gertrude Beebe.

One-Act Plays Scheduled at Bard Theatre

Russia in 1890 and one of the Aran Islands of Ireland in 1900 will be the settings for two vastly different one-act plays to be presented by the Bard Theatre of Drama and Dance Saturday through Tuesday, May 27 at 8:30 p.m.

"Riders to the Sea" by John M. Synge is a tragic portrayal of the courageous effort of an Irish fisherman's family to accept the inevitable. The family will be played by Alice Breton, Amy Gavaris, Marilyn Salkin and Phillip Terry. The play will be directed by Micaela March.

"A Wedding" by Anton Chekov is described by the author as a "joke in one act," the joke being on the audience which is shown at once through satire the absurdity of social class standards. The large cast is under the direction of Rufus Botzow and includes John Adair, Bruce Chilton, Christopher Claremont, Ricki Faber, Vicki Garlick, Will Rogers, MacKay

Taylor, and William Tingley.

There is no charge for admission but reservations should be made in advance by phoning the Bard Theatre, Annandale-on-Hudson, between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

HISTORY MAKER — Tom Seaver, shown in action, as he pitched New York Mets to 5-0 win over front running Atlanta Braves to bring Met record to 18-18, only second time in club's history they have been at .500 mark. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Seaver Gets Little Lucky

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Seaver has been a good pitcher ever since he came to the New York Mets two years ago, but now he's getting lucky, too, and when a pitcher is good and lucky ... well, that's just great.

The 24-year-old bulwark of New York's young pitching staff is certainly looking that way after muffling the hard-hitting Atlanta Braves on three hits in a 5-0 victory Wednesday night.

The gem was Seaver's fifth straight triumph in which he has given just seven runs, raised his record to 6-2 and lowered his earned run average to 1.96.

Seaver's way has been made easier by a little rain and with the Mets finally scoring some runs behind him.

Victory No. 4 came when the Mets scored eight runs in the eighth inning after Seaver left for a pinch hitter in the inning — "the first time I can recall winning a game with the Mets after I was out."

And last Sunday, Seaver avoided a possible loss when rain washed out a game in which he was losing 3-0.

Claude Osteen and Gaylord Perry also lived up to their calling as two of the National League's best pitchers. Osteen pitched the Los Angeles Dodgers past the Chicago Cubs 3-1 with a five-hitter and Perry held off St. Louis as San Francisco nudged the Cardinals 4-3.

Bob Moose notched a five-hitter behind a 15-hit attack as Pittsburgh whopped San Diego 11-1. Houston continued its comeback with a 3-2 triumph over Montreal and Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 6-5 in other games.

Seaver, whose fast ball and sharp control led him to a 16-13 Rookie of the Year record in 1967 followed by a 16-12 mark last year for the light-hitting Mets, hasn't lost since April 25, and his only two defeats were by 3-1 scores to Bob Gibson and Ferguson Jenkins.

But Wednesday night, there was no stopping him as he retired 12 consecutive hitters over one stretch and breezed in with virtually no trouble boosting the Mets to .500 for the first time this late in a season.

Cleon Jones, the leading hitter in the major leagues, singled in two first inning runs off Phil Niekro, 6-3, and Bud Harrelson wrapped it up with a three-run triple in the eighth.

And for Seaver, the best might still be to come.

"He's been a little down on himself after losing a couple of real tough ones," said Manager Gil Hodges, "but tonight he was great."

"It was my best game by far this year," Seaver added. "I seem to have straightened myself out and out and I think I'll have a good year now."

Seven Straight For Yankees

By United Press International

Jerry Kenney singled home Horace Clarke from second with two out in the 11th inning Wednesday night to give the New York Yankees their seventh straight victory, a 6-5 triumph over the Oakland Athletics.

Bill Robinson opened the inning with his second consecutive triple and one out later was thrown out at the plate on Clarke's grounder to first.

Clarke stole second, his third stolen base of the night, and scored on Kenney's third hit.

Robinson's triple in the eighth inning drove in Tom Tresh to give the Yankees a 5-4 lead after Joe Pepitone's homer leading off the eighth tied the score at 4-4.

Don Buford drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single and Frank Robinson scored one run and drove in another to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Tom Phoebus gained credit for his fifth victory without a loss, pitching 5 1/2 innings, and getting shutout relief aid from Don Leonhard and Pete Richert.

Don Mincher led off the second inning with his eighth homer of the season and climaxed a three-run third inning with a run-scoring single as the Seattle Pilots beat the Washington Senators 6-2.

Gene Brabender, John O'Donohue and Diego Segui were tagged for nine hits, including Mike Epstein's 10th homer of the season which came off O'Donohue in the seventh, in the Pilots' fourth victory in five meetings with the Senators this season.

Roger Nelson, backed by homers by Jerry Adair, Chuck Harrison and Bob Oliver, became the first Kansas City pitcher to toss a shutout as the Royals beat the Cleveland Indians 4-0. Nelson, who lowered his earned run average to 2.95 while allowing seven hits, struck out five, walked none and didn't allow a Cleveland runner to get past second while evening his record at 3-3.

Rico Petrocelli hit his 13th homer of the season and drove in two runs in the first game and Tony Conigliaro hit a two-run triple in the first inning of the second game, leading the Boston Red Sox to 5-2 and 8-3 wins over the California Angels.

Pine Bush Captures UCAL Track Without First Place

NEW PALTZ. Highland High grabbed five individual titles in the annual Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL) track meet here Wednesday. Pine Bush failed to come up with an individual winner.

But when the total points were compiled here this clear, crisp Wednesday afternoon, the Bushmen had been crowned 1969 UCAL track champion with a brilliant display of in-depth performance.

The Bushmen racked up 107 1/2 points for substantial margin over runnerup Highland (96 points) and its five firsts. Onteora placed third with 69 points, followed by Marlboro (53), Rondout Valley (51), New Paltz (50) and Wallkill (46 1/2).

The depth of the Pine Bush squad was reflected in six key second place finishes in the individual events and a second to Highland's record break effort in the 880 relay.

Relay to Pine Bush
Eric Rogge, Bart Rolla, John Caputo and Earl Winterstein combined for a 3:56.2 clocking to win the medley relay for Pine Bush.

Scoring second place finishes for Pine Bush were Gary Minaro (180 low hurdles), Chris Moore (shot put), Pat Arlotta (440), Steve Martin (220), Birch Snyder (discus) and Mark Read (pole vault).

The only record in the meet was set by Highland in the 880-yard relay. The quartet of Ron Huckell, Charlie Hicks, Lee Barrington and Don Huckell ran it in 1:35.1, eclipsing the old mark of 1:36.7 set in 1965 by Rondout Valley.

Snyder Wins 220
Only other performer close to a record was Onteora's fine runner, Dave Snyder, who was clocked in 0:23.1 in the 200, a tenth of tick off the old mark of 23.0 set by Wallkill's Tom Appuzzo in 1964.

Ron Huckell of Highland nipped Snyder at the wire to win the 100 in the modest time of 10.5 seconds. Huckell's victory came as a surprise as UCAL observers figured Snyder would win both the 100 and 220.

Middies Stop KHS Nine, 4-2

MIDDLETOWN. Kingston High rallied for two runs in the ninth inning against Middletown High here Wednesday but it was too late to undo a wild fifth inning in which the Middies scored three unearned runs enroute to a 4-2 DUSO baseball victory.

Pete Helmich, the Kingston starter, yielded a first inning run, then had a string of seven straight strikeouts when the fifth inning collapse occurred.

With two out, Helmich walked catcher Bob Munro, who was safe on a steal when Paul Watzka dropped the ball after the tag. Gary Lingman walked. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch by Helmich.

Pinch hitter Bill Zimmer hit a routine ground ball to shortstop Greg Rios, whose throw pulled Rick Sorenson off first base. Munro scored and when Sorenson threw wildly to third trying to head off Klingman, the latter scored.

Another wild throw and a double by Vince Salamone boosted Middletown's lead to 4-0 at that point on just two hits.

The Middies scored in routine fashion in the first inning when leadoff Chuck Zimmer walked, advanced on an infield out and scored on Paul Hughes' single to center.

Kingston rallied for two runs without an out in the seventh but Hughes came in to relieve starter Mark Turfler and put out the fire.

Jon Carter walked and Sorenson and Rios scratched outfield hits to load the bases with none out. Harry Lyons' soft liner to center scored Carter and Sorenson and left two men on with none out.

Hughes came in, got one out on an infield out, yielded a base-loading infield hit by Brady, then fanned Nick Ascienzo and Ken Williams to end the game.

The loss evened Kingston's DUSO record at 2-2 and put Coach Mike Rienzo's Maroons at 4-6 overall.

Wide Country Takes Monticello Feature

Wide Country, with trainer Greg Macdonald in the sulky, matched his best 1969 winning time of 2:11 to take last night's featured fourth race trot at Monticello Raceway.

Macdonald kept his 6-year-old horse far back in the field while the pace-setters led by Farmours, reined by George Sadovsky, burned themselves out. At the three-quarter pole, Farmours succumbed to the relentless drive of Surplus, driven by Lawrence Capasso.

But in the paddock turn, Wide Country began his winning brush and was third in the stretch. Urged on by Macdonald, Wide Country swept by Surplus just before the wire to capture the event by half a length in 2:11 flat. Previously, Wide Country had registered the same time on March 7th at Liberty Bell Park in Philadelphia.

Show horse in last night's feature was Chic Hi Bub, Robert Doherty, driver. Fractional times for last night's Class C 14-0-2 trot were :32.1, 1:05.3 and 1:38.3.

Winning Wide Country returned $7.00, $4.20 and $4.40. Surplus was $8.20, 7.80 and Chic Hi Bub paid $10.60 for show.

Wednesday night's winning combination of number 6 and number 2 for the daily double, coincidentally was the same combination that was chalked up the previous night.

The contrast was heartening for tonight's backers of Mercury Shooter, Ken Heene reining, in the first race trot, and Harriets Sister, Bruce Higgins driving, in the second race pace. They received $292.40, the largest daily double pay-off of Monticello's fledgling season. On Tuesday night, those who backed 6 and 2 received $43.60 for their two dollar wager, just under a seventh of last night's return.

SHS Defeated, 3-0 By Wappingers

SAUGERTIES
Saugerties High school's baseball team lost their tenth game in 17 starts, this one a 4-1, decision to Wappingers Falls.

Wappingers trailed 1-0, after four innings, but exploded for all four of its runs in the top of the fifth. Jim Barton singled and Bill Sardo was inserted as a pinch runner. Bob Cerino sacrificed Sardo to second. Steve Miller and Tom Kozlek then each drew walks to load the bases.

Ted Locke then was forced at the plate. Mike Rush walked, forcing in the tying run. Ed Dubinski singled in two runs giving Wappingers more than enough for the win.

Mike Turek struckout seven of the first ten batters he faced and finished with a total of ten, for Saugerties.

The Sawyers play at Lourdes Friday and return home for two games next week against Kingston on Wednesday and Arlington on Thursday.

Ellenville HR Spree In Softball

ELLENVILLE
Ellenville Softball League observers are claiming an all-time Hudson Valley record for home runs in one inning for the Tschopp team which drubbed APA, 13-4, this week.

Tschopp's hit five home runs during a nine-run rally in the second inning—four back to back—and two for Tony Zovitoski, who doubles as a pitcher and hitter.

Zovitoski led off with a homer off pitcher McPhillips. Then came successive four-plys by John Hohmann, Leon Julian and Bob Lasher of Kingston. Zovitoski got another turn at bat and drilled his second shot of the inning over the left field fence.

Zovitoski also had two singles and Lasher a double to go with his home run. J. Scotto unloaded a round tripper for A.P.A.

League observers feel Zovitoski's two homers in one inning may just tie an area record, but four straight homers, well, they're claiming that as an all-time Hudson Valley record until somebody comes along to disprove it.

Zovitoski spun a 4-hitter to notch his first win of the season.

In another game, Dick Pepper pitched a 4-hitter and had a shutout until the last inning, as Silver Grill defeated Channel Master, 5-2.

The Grill collected five hits off Bill Pallatino, including run producing doubles by Hess and Rivera and a triple by Pepper. Pallatino, Smith and Collins connected for doubles.

PETE ZEEH

Zeeh Is First-Round Winner in Tourney

Pete Zeeh, the current Ulster County singles champion, defeated Arnold Bradshaw of New York City, 6-3, 6-1, in the first round of the Northern Westchester tennis championships at the Pound Ridge Tennis Club this past weekend.

Zeeh, who also shares the Ulster doubles crown with his brother, Bill (of the KHS varsity), combined a good net game with overpowering serves to beat the highly ranked Manhattanite. Pete now advances to the semi-final round where he meets second-seeded Vernon Morgan, the defending champion.

The match will be played Saturday.

If the local star gets by Morgan, he will play in the finals on Sunday, probably against Claude Scholank, the top-seeded entry from New York City.

More than 64 of the top east coast tennis stars are competing for top prizes in this tourney.

SYNAGOGUE NEWS

Agudas Achim

Congregation Agudas Achim conducts services twice daily. Shavuot, the Feast of Weeks, services will be held today at 8:20 p.m., Friday 8:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. and Saturday at 8:30 a.m. and 8:20 p.m. Yizkor, memorial services are part of the Saturday ritual. All services are conducted by Cantor Herman Slomovits. Sunday school and Hebrew school classes will meet as usual in the Talmud Torah at 100 Lucas Avenue.

Ahavath Israel

The Holiday of Shavuot, or Weeks, so called because it falls seven weeks after the second day of Passover, will be observed by the Jewish people over the world for two days beginning this evening by the Conservative and Orthodox Jews, and for one day by Reform Jews.

The significance of the holiday is two fold. It is a reminder of the agricultural feast observed fifty days after the second day of Passover, when the first ripened fruits were brought to the Holy Temple in Jerusalem as an offering before the fruits were allowed to be eaten. It is therefore also called Hag Habbikurim, the Feast of the First Fruits.

It is also celebrated as the day when Moses went up to Mt. Sinai to receive the Ten Commandments. This incident occurred 50 days after the Israelites made the exodus from slavery from Egypt.

The festival is observed by decorating the synagogues and the homes with flowers and branches to signify the agricultural theme. Dairy foods are part of the home feasts to commemorate the Israelites' sojourn at Mt. Sinai when they were preparing themselves for the hallowing event of the Revelation.

The festival is observed by decorating the synagogues and the homes with flowers and branches to signify the agricultural theme. Dairy foods are part of the home feasts to commemorate the Israelites' sojourn at Mt. Sinai when they were preparing themselves for the hallowing event of the Revelation. The Religious Services in the synagogues are geared to the stress placed upon the Revelation on Mt. Sinai and the receiving of the Ten Commandments. This reading is preceded by a traditional chant called "Akdemos," in which a description of the Revelation is portrayed in poetic form.

Religious services for Shavuot will be held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, tonight and Friday at 8 o'clock and Friday and Saturday mornings at 9:30 a.m. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Harry Z. Schechter, and the sermon entitled: "A Return to Sinai, will be delivered on Friday night."

On Saturday morning, May 24, Yizkor (Memorial) services will be held at 11 a.m. The liturgy will be chanted by Cantor David Katchen, who will also chant the Akdomos and the Scriptural Reading including the Ten Commandments.

The morning services on both days of the holiday will be arranged for youth participation, and will begin for the young people and children at 10 a.m.

Temple Emanuel

Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn—The Holiday of Shavuot will be celebrated with a special program of Jewish artistic culture at Temple Emanuel Friday night. Services begin at 7:30 p.m. Myron Schoen will speak on What is Jewish Art. Mrs. June Pauker will present a program of contemporary Jewish music and 70 paintings of Jewish art will be on display in the Rabbi Bloom Memorial Hall. The public is invited.

During the worship service, Mrs. Anita Goldberg will kindle the Sabbath candles and Maurice Goldberg will lead the congregation in chanting the Kiddush prayer. Memories of the following will be invoked: Samuel Weisberg, Dr. Samuel Stern, Mattie Samter, Harry Kaplan, Millie Hymes, Amelia Hymes, Rose Levine and Samuel Bloom. Following the service the Oneg Shabbat will be sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Goldberg in honor of the baby naming of Robert Hille Feigenbaum.

The annual religious school confirmation service will be held Sunday, May 25 at 2 p.m. This year's confirmations include Janie Davis, Jon Eldridge, Wayne Friedman, Bruce Gerbarg, Marc Greenwald, Eve Moscovitz, Carole Greenwald, Karen Newman, Neil Segal, Betty Winkler, Elliot Wyman and David Zimet.

Following the services, a reception will be held in honor of the students, sponsored by their parents in the Social Hall. The public is invited.

Introducing a Used Car Guarantee It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we-pay-half-you-pay-half deals."

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade-in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevs. Fords. Ramblers. VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens.)

So. The next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

Dear Abby

Should Hubby Know?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: How dare you advise a woman whose conscience is tormenting her because she cheated on her husband NOT to tell him?

If you don't know that the foundation of all good marriages is complete honesty, then you ought to confine your advice to teenagers.

You told that woman to confess to her God — to her clergyman — to a dear friend, but NOT to her husband. HE is the one she should confess to!

I hope you will reconsider and retract your advice to this poor woman. You gave her very bad advice.

DEAR ROGER: Sorry, but unless a woman is reasonably certain that hers is a mature, forgiving, and understanding man, she'd be better off keeping her bawoz shut.

DEAR ABBY: I'm with you! All "confessions" are NOT good. At age 55 I am still awakened — sometimes at 4 o'clock in the morning — to hear my husband cursing me because of a past intimacy with another man. This took place long before I even MET my husband, but I foolishly "confessed" all, and now he insists that I have sinned against HIM — when I didn't even know him.

I would give anything if I hadn't told him, but I did, and now it's too late.

I would advise women who have husbands like mine to try to tune him out. Don't listen, don't answer, and don't try to apologize or explain. Leave the room. Sleep on the couch if necessary. (I did, last night.) Consider it just another headache.

My husband is fine when he isn't harping on this one subject — which is like a sickness with him — and I comfort myself by reasoning that my love for him is greater than his love for me. I am not going to crack up, and I am not going to leave him. Statistics tell me that I'll be alone soon enough.

SORRY I TALKED

DEAR ABBY: To "LONESOME AND BLUE" who is bitter toward her husband because she is unable to go on business trips with her husband. You are not alone. I have exactly the same situation.

My husband has been a traveling executive for 15 years. We've been married 18 years and have 3 children. I am 39, have kept up my appearance and figure, and keep up on current events. During the time my husband is away I spend as much time with the children as possible since they don't see much of their father. I don't accept evening social engagements alone, either.

My husband has an expense account which enables him to stay at the best hotels and eat at the finest restaurants. When he gets home, he is ready for a "home-cooked meal." I am ready to go out. Guess who wins.

We are well off financially, but that doesn't help much. To top the whole thing off, my husband met a girl at the airport (she sold him his airline tickets). They lunched together and discovered they had so much in common because they were both so well-traveled. It developed into an adulterous affair, and we are now in the process of getting a divorce. So I, too, am

LONESOME AND BLUE

DEAR ABBY: Please, please for goodness' sake, say something about the girls who wear mini skirts with legs and figures that are nothing to be proud of. I have all the sympathy in the world for fat girls, but why should people be forced to see so much of them? It seems the bigger the rear, the shorter the skirt.

HAD IT IN BINGHAMTON DEAR HAD IT: I've said it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 6970, Los Angeles, Cal. 90669, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 6970, Los Angeles, Cal. 90669, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Horoscope

By SIDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Friday,

May 23, 1969

ASTROLOGICAL COOKING FOR TONIGHT: Moon is in Leo, Jupiter goes direct in motion in Virgo. Fine night for LEO - VIRGO SCALLOPINI. Lightly dust six 1/4-inch pieces of veal in seasoned flour. Saute quickly in olive oil, along with 2 tbs. of chopped shallots or onions, minced garlic clove and 1/2 cup of sliced mushrooms. When veal is nicely browned on both sides, add jigger of brandy or cognac, and light it in pan. When flame dies down, add 1/4 cup of sherry and 1/2 cup of favorite spaghetti sauce. Simmer 7 min. and serve. Then you'll be cooking with astrology!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Giving in to childish requests could prove costly. Co-operation comes from quarters previously closed. Be confident. Act in manner which inspires others to believe and trust.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You display creative qualities. Many are pleasantly surprised. Be direct, forthright. Co-operation is obtained from key people. You gain allies at work, place of business.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Ideas pay off today. Key is to follow through. Avoid scattering efforts. Finish what you start. Be receptive. Know that you succeed through steady pace and determination.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Operations expand. Money potential is heightened. Element of timing is on your side. You are where the action is. Short journey is very beneficial where income is concerned.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 2): Financial stroke of luck indicated. But don't let this trigger wave of extravagance. Keep feet on ground. There are details which require special attention. Act accordingly.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Air of optimism prevails. You get inkling of potential. You can see above, beyond petty obstacles. Key is to form positive attitudes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Greater harmony in domestic area indicated. Join with family in special project. Fine for home entertainment. Gracious guests can bolster ego.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Opportunity is present. But it may be too close for you to perceive. Concentrate on objectives. Know what you want; chart straight course. Then success marks efforts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Draw line between mere rationalization and solid philosophy. Practical efforts succeed. Emphasis continues on travel, long-distance communication. Clear away emotional debris.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Give careful attention to financial matters. Hidden obstacles can be overcome. But you need co-operation from one close to you. Day to finish rather than to begin project.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You get opportunity to present ideas. Public reception is good. You can also patch up differences with mate, partner. Accent public relations. Make views crystal clear.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20): Remember resolutions concerning diet, general health. Avoid extremes. Shake off tendency to brood. You are seeing true picture. Accept what is, not what might be.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, greater financial rewards due, along with added emotional tranquility. You are going to meet people and go places.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BUSTY: (Q.) Please tell all those girls who cry about being flat to stop.

I'm very big-busted and it's no pleasure. I can't wear sweaters because people think I'm disgraceful. Dresses never fit right. The tops are always tight. People say I'm advertising what I've got. They don't realize anything I wear looks that way.

They make jokes, too. I walked toward some swinging doors at school, and I heard about 15 boys say, "Open both doors!"

I'd rather be flat-chested and free to enjoy teen fashions — 16 and Busty in Virginia.

(A.) Either a big front or a small front has its advantages. Yours is that most boys still care more for a shapely girl than for one who wears the latest fashions.

You can solve the tight-dress problem by switching to blouses of soft material that drape and caress your assets rather than squeeze them.

HE LET HER DOWN: (Q.) I dated a girl last summer. When school started I had to stop because she lived a long way off and I didn't have a car.

I called her for about a month but had to stop that, too. I didn't tell her why. I lost my job and didn't have the money to call.

Now I have a car and I want to date her again. How can I ask her, though, after letting her down? — R.K. in Chicago.

(A.) Tell her the truth. She will be happy to know that you did not fire of her, and she probably will be happy to see you again.

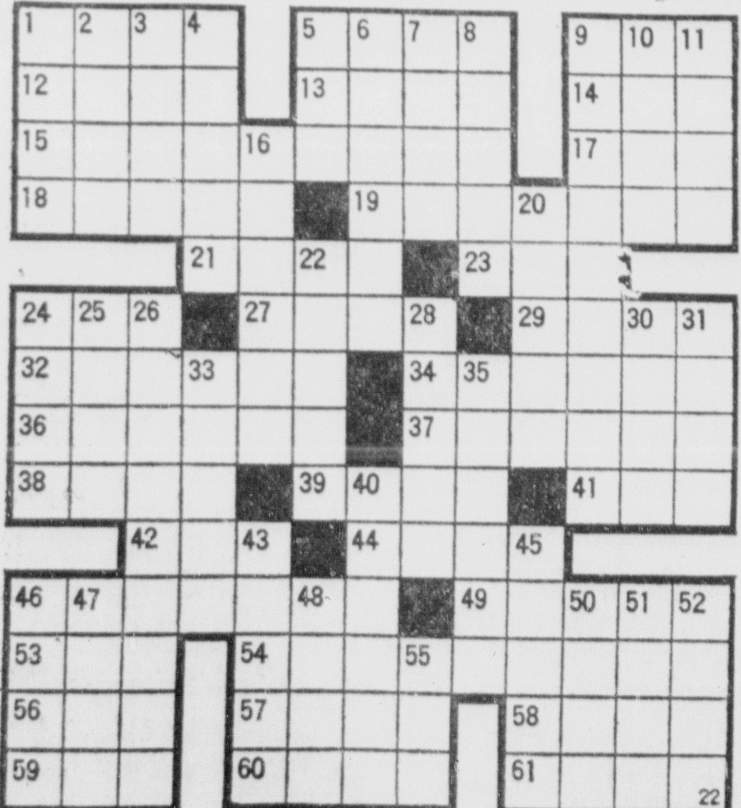

When you don't stay in touch with a girl you really care for, she can only think that you've lost interest.

Next time you get cut off from someone you don't want to forget you, don't just leave it that way. You can always write.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Rating Odds Against Cavett

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The great Cavett experiment will begin on ABC-TV Monday.

On that day, the network will turn over to humorist Dick Cavett a series of three one-hour programs each week in prime time.

These programs will be of the talk-and-variety format that NBC-TV established with the "Tonight" show, that ABC-TV imitated with the Joey Bishop series, and that CBS-TV will copy when the late-night Merv Griffin entry debuts Aug. 18.

Prime Time

However—to repeat—the difference with the Cavett series is that it will be broadcast in the prime viewing hours.

His show will be seen each Monday, Tuesday and Friday, at 10 p.m. EDT. It is not on ABC-TV's new fall schedule, however, which means the network is counting on it mainly as a vacation-time conversation piece.

Nevertheless, if the series should somehow shake things up in prime time, and—by some fluke—get good ratings, it might obviously give ABC-TV a few ideas.

The odds against the Cavett series are, however, heavy—that is, from a ratings standpoint.

Big Names

At any rate, Cavett now is about to make his big move. His premiere guests Monday are scheduled to be Liza Minnelli, the celebrated daughter of Judy Garland; Candice Bergen, the celebrated daughter of Edgar Bergen; Truman Capote, the celebrated writer, and James Coburn, the celebrated actor.

Next Tuesday, the guests are expected to be Jane Fonda, the celebrated daughter of Henry Fonda; Joe Namath, who celebrates a lot, and Tom Jones, the ABC television singing star who has been described as a great radio personality.

A week from Friday, Cavett's guests will be Dick Benjamin and his wife Paula Prentiss; Stirling Moss, the auto racing driver, and the cast of the off-Broadway musical "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," based on the "Peanuts" comic strip.

Opening lead—♠ J

Here is another hand from the early stages of the Vanderbilt that shows Dick Walsh building up a big swing for his team.

Dick won the spade lead in dummy and while he is normally a speedy player, he really thought a long while with this one.

The elementary play would be to lead dummy's king of clubs. South would wind up making five no-trump, assuming that clubs divided 3-2 and that East and West did not cash their ace and king of diamonds. In fact, he might even make six if East threw away a heart.

The first part of Dick's study was to decide what the chance was that his opponents at the other table would be in game. He decided there was a good chance they would be playing in a club part-score and is behooved him to take the best play for his contract and forget about overtricks.

Therefore Dick led a heart to his hand at trick two. Then he played his jack of clubs. West had to play his ace and dummy's whole club suit was now good. The best Dick could do was to make 10 tricks but that was a lot better than going down. He was also right about the bidding. Three clubs was played at the other table.

It should be noted that Dick's safety play was quite far-fetched. It would only help him if West held the singleton ace of clubs.

Nevertheless it turned out to be well conceived. The ace of clubs was singleton in the West hand and the no-trump game was not reached at the other table.

WHY WE SAY

STORIES OF A BUILDING

HAND PAINTING: The reason we call the floors of a building "stories" is because early European builders used to paint picture stories on the sides of their houses. Each floor of the house had a different story painted on the outside walls, thus making each floor a different story.

Study Growing Pains

By JEAN F. DOLAN

NEW PALTZ — Fast-approaching metropolitan "sprawl" and how best to cope with anticipated growth concerned approximately 50 persons in attendance at the Hudson Pattern for Progress Wednesday at the State University of New York at New Paltz.

From a seven-county area which comprises the mid-Hudson region on the fringe of the great metropolis of New York City, the representatives of education, government agencies, local officials and industry flocked to the southern Ulster campus to participate in a day-long session of speakers and workshops. All were aimed at the best approach in dealing with the anticipated growth while preserving that which is unique to the region.

Positive Action Next

Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, a support planning group which through in relative infancy has passed its phase one and is ready to launch into positive action for sensible development. Theme of the meeting was Agenda for Regional Action and discussion centered around a 13-point listing of major objectives. Six workshops sought to explore the general areas of concern after formal presentation of the issues at stake.

Cities and suburbs; Renewal and Growth; Closing the Housing Gap; Growing Competition for Water; Meeting Higher Education Needs; Shaping Growth through Transportation and the Crisis in Financing Our Public Service were the general topics explored by the participants. A personal concern was revealed in the face-to-face discussions where problems particular to a specific area were discussed.

In the higher education session, John J. Neumaier, president of the New Paltz College was queried by a representative of Students for a Democratic Society as to the merits of the present SUNY educational approach. Other workshops were concerned with individual urban and rural situations posed by those intimately connected with specific problems in Sullivan, Orange, Putnam, Dutchess, Ulster, Greene and Columbia Counties.

Most of the articulate with immediate problems were from Dutchess and Orange Counties where the spread of greater city is being felt in the rural areas and the need for immediate renewal action is most pressing in the cities.

'Like it or Not'

The luncheon speaker, Edward J. Logue, president of the New York State Urban development Cooperation, Keith, president of the New York Regional Plan Association; Jerome Markovits, Middletown mayor; Jeh V. Johnson, member, National Commission on Urban Problems; David C. Schoentag, Dutchess County Executive; Donald A. Eldridge, Bennett College president; Richard W. Mitchell, Poughkeepsie mayor and Carl J. Mays, executive director of the Hudson River Valley Commission.

Kingston and Ulster County were well represented by industrial, banking, Chamber of Commerce and political figures including Mayor Raymond W. Garaghan. County educators were much in evidence including Dr. George B. Erbstein, president of Ulster County Community College.

All seven counties sent student personnel from high schools and colleges. Lobby displays featured exhibits of urban renewal plans for the major cities in the area.

New Impasse in Highland

HIGHLAND — "The teachers in Highland fail to understand why the Board of Education should not see the importance of an early resolution of a dispute which if allowed to continue can only create a deteriorating situation."

The teachers first declared an impasse in late April and did not meet formally with the board's negotiating representatives until the Tuesday night meeting. Earlier in the month the teachers were able to mobilize enough support at the annual school district meeting to delay the budget vote pending the release of the PERB findings.

The PERB fact-finder is made available for such purposes through provisions of the Taylor law, which regulates collective bargaining procedures for public employees.

Board President, John Elia said that the PERB findings were rejected because of "errors in the report and obvious contradictory facts."

He said that the board was currently awaiting recommendations from Donald C. Baines the chief principal of the school district, before offering to re-open negotiations.

Michael Hinchey, president of Highland Teachers Association, said in a statement Wednesday that the board was "engaged in irresponsible tactics designed to stall a settlement of the current negotiations dispute."

In the statement, Hinchey notes, "that it is the opinion of the association that the fact-finders report clearly sets forth the recommendations which could forthwith resolve the impasse."

The statement also charges that the board has been dragging its feet in the negotiations, asserting that findings. That vote is now scheduled for June 3.

The PERB fact-finder, Irving Winsoff, an Ellenville attorney, recommended that teachers in the district should receive a starting salary of $6,750 with increments of $300 yearly, $300 upon receiving tenure, $550 after 15 years, and $250 after 25 years.

The board's latest offer, on the other hand, calls for a $6,600 base salary, with increments of $300 yearly, $250 upon receiving tenure, $250 after 15 years, and $250 after 25 years.

The teacher's latest salary package calls for a $6,800 base salary with yearly increments of $310, however, they have indicated a willingness to comply with the PERB findings.

Elia noted under the Taylor Law the board retains the prerogative to reject the fact-finders report and noted that the negotiations could resume "if the teachers made a reasonable offer."

A spokesman for teachers in this community across the Hudson River from Poughkeepsie said approximately 60 of Highland's 87 full-time teachers gathered in front of their schools before classes to protest a refusal by the Board of Education to raise pay for beginning teachers.

The board refused Tuesday to raise the salaries from $6,400 to $6,750, as had been recommended by representatives of the state's Public Employees Relations Board.

Egypt Answers Back

By United Press International
Egyptian planes shot down one of six Israeli jet fighters that violated Egyptian airspace over the Red Sea and chased the others away today, Cairo radio said. It was the second air battle in as many days.

The broadcast quoted military spokesmen as saying the Arab pilots intercepted the Israeli aircraft over Ghardaqa, dueled in a dogfight and sent one Israeli plane plunging into the sea.

The Egyptian planes safely returned to base, Cairo radio said.

Wednesday's air battle occurred over the Suez Canal. Israel said two Egyptian MIG-21s were shot down in dogfights, with a third destroyed by a ground-to-air missile. Egypt denied losing any planes and said its pilots blasted one Israeli aircraft over Qantara.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Premier Golda Meir said another Middle East war would break out if her country gave up the Arab lands it occupied in the 1967 conflict.

She reiterated her government's opposition to withdrawal Wednesday night when leftist members of a labor council suggested the move as a step toward peace with the Arabs.
